Floodwaters Batter Metropolitan Denver Area

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Floodwaters roaring out of mountain cloudbursts raced down the South Platte River and across the Denver area today, ripping out bridges and causing millions of dollars of damage.

The crest struck Denver shortly before midnight, but another crest three hours later flattened out before it reached suburban Littleton on the southern edge of the metropolitan area.

The second crest was reported by the Colorado Highway Patrol to be about 15 feet high — roughly the size of the initial surge — when it reached Waterton, 16 miles above Denver.

Even as the second threat melted away, the first crest was moving out onto the prairie lands northeast of Denver.

Evacuation warnings were sounded ahead of the rising waters and most residents of low-lying areas got out well ahead of the wave.

A power failure blacked out much of downtown Denver shortly before midnight. Other sections of the city also were affected.

Many residents of the Globeville area in North Denver were directed to evacuate their homes shortly before midnight. The city's packing houses and stockyards are located in the vicinity, although apparently high above the water line.

Denver Fire Chief Cassio Frazzini was swept from a rowboat early today in the middle of the torrent while trying to reach some of the trapped persons. He was rescued later as he clung to a tree along the edge of the raging torrent.

A crest estimated by the Colorado Highway Patrol at 15 to 20 feet high swept down the usually shallow South Platte as it roared into Denver from the south.

On the way, it tore out highway bridges, covered up roads and lapped menacingly at railroad trestles.

Gov. John A. Love made a personal inspection of some of the flood area and called it appalling and unbelievable.

Power and telephone service was disrupted in the Denver suburbs.

Sheriff Roy Vogt of suburban Arapahoe County said thousands of residents of Littleton and Englewood, Denver suburbs, were evacuated and confirmed that hundreds of homes were flooed as the waters rolled into the populous area. Vogt reported 200 house trailers were lost in one park west of the river at Littleton.

Evacuations preceded the flood crest as it moved across Denver from south to north. Among the buildings cleared was Denver's Union Station.

Five persons were treated and dismissed at the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

James Brase burned by ammonia; Rickie Washburn fell off pony; Lloyd Williams, ditch caved in; Glenn Ray Ross, ran into car; and Michael Richards, Matthews, bumped his head.

4. The City Bond Issue

10-Year Old Sewage Plant Must Expand to Meet Needs

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

Designed in 1955 with the ability to process 1,200,000 gallons of sewage per day, the Sikeston sewage treatment plant now handles over 2,000,000 gallons of sewage daily.

According to plant supervisor Richard Lucy, the sewage treatment facilities are now operating constantly above capacity, and soon will have to be expanded to keep pace with rapidly rising sewage flows from Sikeston's growing industrial, commercial, and residential areas.

This necessary expansion has been provided for in the $1,200,000 board of public works plan for improving the city's water and sewer systems. Exactly half of the proposal or $600,000 will be used to increase the capacity of Sikeston's sewage disposal system.

The most critical sewage problem facing the city is, of course, the insufficient size of the system, and so $220,000 have been allotted for the purpose of doubling the capacity of the main sewage treatment plant.

Plans also call for the expansion of Sikeston's two sewage lift-stations, which are presently operating very close to capacity. These two lift-stations pump sewage from the eastern and western edges of the city, where they are located, to the main sewage treatment plant.

The prospect of industrial development has also prompted the board of public works to propose the immediate construction of two new trunk sewers -- one to the west city limits along Malone Avenue, and the other to the Canvas Products area near the airport. These two areas are considered likely locations for new industry, and, as such, are badly in need of a sanitary sewer system.

Some of the funds from this $1,200,000 proposal will be set aside for future construction of a trunk sewer running north and south along the Frisco railroad from Murray Lane to Hardy Street, and then along West Street north to Salcedo Road. This trunk sewer will be constructed whenever residential, commercial, or industrial needs make it necessary.

These important improvements in Sikeston's sewage disposal system should meet the demands of a growing community for several years to come. Moreover, they will have the effect of reducing pollution, increasing property values, and promoting better public health.

POINTING TO THE AREA INTENSIVELY SEARCHED is Cape Girardeau Chief of Police, Irvin E. Beard. The last search was made up of seven teams, which were assigned a specific area using aerial photographic maps.

BETSY GILL played here on the bank of the river with her brothers and sisters. According to L. J. McClure, neighbor of the Gills, Betsy would jump from the rock (Top X) into the arms of a playmate standing on the rock below (Bottom X).

Futile Hunt Uncovers No Sign of Girl

By JOE BEAN

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The most intensive search in this city's history ended late Wednesday on the same note it began -- futility.

The three-day, inch-by-inch search of more than a one square mile residential area and one and a half miles of riverfront by more than 200 citizens for two-year-old Elizabeth Ann Gill produced no lead on the child's location.

Police dogs, boats, volunteers, aerial photographs, and a sea plane were used as Police Chief Irvin E. Beard kept his 34-man force working around the clock in an effort to find the little girl, who walked away from her home at 235 S. Lorimier Sunday at 4 p.m.

"We don't know any place else to search," the Chief told this reporter yesterday. Pointing to an aerial photograph of the neighborhood, he said "all this area -- from the river back almost three-fourths of a mile by a mile and a half long -- has been gone over intensively at least twice."

The youngest of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill, Betsy was wearing a green and white checked blouse, pink panties, and sandal - type moccasins when she was last seen. Betsy will be three in August, weighs about 22 pounds, and is three feet tall. She has light brown hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion.

The girl had been left Sunday in care of her 13-year-old sister, according to Chief Beard, while her mother was in Chicago attending the eighth-grade graduation of a son and her father was working in St. Louis. He is an electrician.

More than 150 Cape Girardeauans participated in a massive ground search Tuesday, after being briefed at 8 a.m. by Chief Beard. The volunteers were then split into teams of eight to ten persons each and assigned a specific area to cover. By 2 p.m., the last party had reported to the police station. Nothing had been found to indicate the girl's presence.

From the steep and rocky banks of the Mississippi River to the dense and marshy gulleys of Happy Hollow, local authorities, neighbors, and townspeople have searched every crevice, cistern, and sewer into which the infant could have fallen. Nothing has been found.

The Gill home is two blocks from the Mississippi River and the Morgan Oak street bridge, leading Chief Beard to suggest that Betsy fell into the river.

L. J. McClure, 331 S. Lorimier, told this reporter yesterday in an exclusive interview that children in the neighborhood played around the river bank. "One of the kids in the neighborhood told me," he said, "that they would stand on this rock and jump to that one (about seven feet below it and just inches above the river) where one of the other kids would catch them."

The child told him Betsy played this game too, he said.

The river bank has been checked every day by six boats, Chief Beard said. And although the ground search has ended, daily examinations of the bank will continue, he indicated.

Barges belonging to the Missouri Dry Docks Co., a barge construction firm immediately south of the place where Betsy could have fallen in -- and where the children played -- were moved in case the infant's body had been trapped beneath one of them. Nothing was found.

"There are indications she had been to the river before," the Chief explained. "The spot where the other children played -- directly under the Route 34 bridge -- is right next to a deep spot, and the water is swift."

To get to the riverfront, the child would have climbed down three embankments -- drops of 12, 10, and 15 feet before being close enough to jump to the flat rock next to the water.

Happy Hollow, a six-block square used as a city dump but presently being excavated and filled, was thoroughly examined, Beard said.

W. A. Turner, an employee of the Energy Coal Co., which has bins in Happy Hollow, said there are "holes in the eight-feet high fence which she could have crawled through." But he said he had been over the area himself "about a dozen times" and had seen nothing.

The area was also covered by search parties.

Phone calls from local citizens have been pouring into the police station, Chief Beard said.

Down Two Migs Near Viet Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two Communist MIG17 fighters in flames today in a dogfight 50 miles south of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The clash occurred while the Phantoms were flying escort for other U.S. warplanes bombing targets about 20 miles north of Thanh Hoa.

The spokesman said four Communist jets appeared and turned toward the American planes as if they were going to attack. But apparently they were hit before they had a chance to open fire, he said.

One parachute was seen opening, but it was not known what happened to the Communist pilot. The other two MIGs escaped.

One plane was shot down by Cmdr. Louis C. Page of San Diego, Calif., who told newsmen in Saigon, "This was the first enemey aircraft I have shot down. Other than that, we were just doing a job."

The pilot of the second Phantom, Lt. (j.g.) E. D. Batson Jr. of Buffalo, N.Y., said: "I'm tickled to death."

The spokesman said the dogfight lasted only 29 seconds and that the Phantoms hit the enemy with air-to-air missiles.

It was presumed that the MIGs were North Vietnamese, although Navy planes have had one brush with Communist Chinese MIGs off Hainan Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Phantoms were flying at an altitude between 10,000 and 20,000 feet when they spotted the hostile aircraft.

Page was asked how they knew the MIGs were about to attack.

"If he's in your general area and headed toward you, you have to assume he's up to no good," the pilot replied.

The MIG17 is of Korean War vintage, armed with one 37mm cannon and two 23mm cannon. The Phantom, one of the fastest and most heavily armed fighters in the American arsenal, is equipped with heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles which home in on the exhaust trail of enemy jets.

The two pilots flew with their radio intercept officers to Saigon for a news conference. Page's officer was Lt. John C. Smith Jr. of Belleview, Ill., whose wife and children live in Powan, Calif. Batson's officer was Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Doremus of Montclair, N.J., whose wife and children live in Wilmington, Del.

Page, who served as spokesman for the group, declined to discuss the tactics used in shooting down the MIGs.

Page also declined to say whether the missiles used were Sidewinders or Sparrows. The Phantom carries both.

He said he assumed the MIGs were North Vietnamese. The four enemy planes were silver and bore the yellow and red insignia of North Viet Nam, he said.

U.S. airmen attacking North Viet Nam last reported spotting hostile planes June 1 while bombing an ammunition dump 45 miles southwest of Hanoi. Eight MIG fighters appeared but wheeled away when the American planes started to close in on them.

On April 4, Communist MIGs shot down two U.S. F105's on a bombing raid about 65 miles south of Hanoi. A pilot of an American F100 said he believed he hit one of the MIGs in that engagement and downed it.

On April 4, four MIG17s jumped four U.S. Navy F4B planes in the Gulf of Tonkin off Red China's Hainan Island, and U.S. officials said one MIG was reported downed.

Hit And Run Driver

Bernard Rice reported to the police this morning that someone ran into the rear of his 1965 Buick while it was parked at his residence, 919 Hawthorne.

A neighbor of Mr. Rice woke him at 2 a.m. and told him he heard a crash and looked outside and saw a moving vehicle.

Authorities report there were skid marks 30 feet long in front of the Rice home.

Police Crackdown

Arthur Briggs, 227 Alabama, was arrested by the Sikeston police yesterday and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

According to Chief of Police Arthur Bruce, the police will begin a crackdown on such infractions to prevent violence.

Others arrested were: Richard Lomax, 914 Lake, charged with improper muffler, Darnell Nelson, 313 Petty, charged with driving wrong way on one way street; Charles McCollum, 213 Daniel, charged with excessive speeding; and Lula Smith, 1210 Petty, no city auto license.

THIS IS THE HOME of Betsy Gill, who has been missing since Sunday afternoon. At the time she was noticed missing, the oldest person at the house was her 13-year-old sister. Her mother and father were in St. Louis.

All Plans Set For "Multi-Occupation"

Plans are set for Sikeston's "Multi - Occupation" adult training program to get underway June 28 for 400 trainees.

Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty said the program will provide basic education, guidance and vocational training to give persons not now employed preparation for jobs, remove them in some cases from welfare roles, and provide them the opportunity to make their own way.

Those to be trained are generally heads of families with an income of less than $1200 per year. Three hundred of the trainees will be adults and the other 100 will be high-school drop outs.

The students are selected and screened by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and then referred to the school for training. At the end of training or, whenever the student is employable, he will be referred to the Employment Security.

Students are to receive eight hours minimum training per day and will be granted subsistence payments to support themselves and families.

Taken from 20 Southeast Missouri counties, most of the enrollees are from Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard Pemiscot, New Madrid, Dunklin, and Butler counties.

If it is necessary, some may be trained the full 18 months to gain employment, Twitty said.

William Sikes, project director for the Board of Education, said the training program includes:

Basic Education--primarily of reading, writing and arithmetic, but also some attention given to government, communication, basic English and social sciences.

Guidance and Counseling--to develop attitudes leading toward good employee-employer relations and an understanding of the free enterprise system.

The trainees will be given exploratory experiences in vocations in order to determine their aptitude for further vocational training.

Sikes said that the areas of vocational instruction will probably be:

1. Automotive service--to include tune-up; used car reconditioning; body and fender; station attendants and tire changers.

2. Food Service--to include training for fry or short order cooks; waitresses, cooks helpers, dish washers, bakers or baker's helpers.

He co-starred in a television series, "Cheyenne," that ran for seven years, and recently returned from India, where he co-starred in a picture.

Accidents

In an accident reported by the state highway patrol in this area Wednesday on Highway 61 two miles south of Cape Girardeau at 4:45 p.m. James Menz, Illmo was injured.

A passenger in a car driven by Bobby J. Crane, 32, Cape Girardeau, Menz was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital with chest and leg injuries suffered when the car went out of control and overturned in a roadside ditch.

In an accident one mile west of Morehouse at junctions 114 and 60, a westbound 1964 Dodge driven by John Newman, 42, St. Louis, struck a 1964 Imperial, driven by Mrs. Aubrey Michael, 36, Benton, who was entering Highway 60 traveling south. The Newman car struck the left rear side of the Michael car.

More Americans To Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up its war effort in Viet Nam another notch, with 16,000 to 21,000 more American troops headed for the war zone.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday that nine more Army and Marine combat battalions, with supply and service units "will be in place in a few weeks."

The augmentation of American troop strength, long predicted, was taken at the request of the South Vietnamese government, the defense chief told a news conference. It will bring the total of U.S. troops in Viet Nam to between 70,000 and 75,000, he said.

Will still more go later?

McNamara parried that question this way:

"The secretary of state and I and the President have repeatedly said that we will do whatever is necessary to achieve our objective in South Viet Nam, and we won't do more than is necessary."

A week ago, the State Department and White House had versions about whether U.S. troops now could be committed to offensive action, rather than only defensive. The question came up again, in another form, in McNamara's news conference: What is the mission of U.S. ground combat personnel?

McNamara replied that the mission is to protect bases where there are Navy concentrations of aircraft, equipment and personnel, then added: "In addition, if the Vietnamese military commanders request the assistance of U.S. troops, U.S. combat troops, because the Vietnamese lack the necessary reserves to effectively counter Viet Cong attacks, Gen. (William C.) Westmoreland (top American commander) has authority to send our combat troops to the assistance and support of the Vietnamese. If he didn't have that authority, a situation could arise in which very heavy loss of life could occur and in which great advantage could be won by the Viet Cong forces."

The revised total of American military personnel in Viet Nam — Army, Marines, Air Force and Navy — does not include 27,000 aboard ships of the 7th Fleet standing off the mainland. About 21,000 of the new total will be combat ground personnel, McNamara said.

This compares with a present strength of about 54,000.

The difference is equivalent to something more than a full division, which averages about 17,000 men.

But McNamara has given no indication of intending to put one or more complete divisions into Viet Nam at this time.

The procedure so far is to utilize only elements — battalions or smaller — of Army and Marine divisions

MORE AND LONGER HIGHWAY BOXCARS

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE GOVERNOR did not do the average motorist any service when they enacted into law, the lengthened trailer and truck bill. This law extends the length of a combination of tractor and two trailers to 65 feet. The hazards to the safety of life and limb to the occupants of an automobile on the highways of this State, have been multiplied many times over those at present, and your daily papers and news-casts give you the shocking truth of these collisions when trucks and automobiles come together. The occupants of the auto are either killed outright or are maimed for life, but the truck driver is unhurt. Texas motorists can look forward to an accelerated death and accident toll, when these behemoths are put in operation on the highways, and there will be many more of them, for this added length and capacity will make it very profitable for their operators.

It is rather ironical that the motorist using the Texas highways who is taxed at present all out of proportion for the use he gets from the highways, that he will be further subjected to the harassment of these trains of lengthened outfits. At one of the committee hearings when this bill was up for consideration, one proponent of this additional length stated "That two of these trailers were safer and more easily handled than one tractor and trailer." This is laying it on 'pretty thick!' and this Journal won't buy that argument. Ask any man who has ever trailed a boat or small luggage carrier behind his auto, and he will agree.

When Texas' present load limit of 72,000 pounds was enacted it was thought that the limit had been reached or exceeded, but even with this liberal limit, truckers will not stay within it. The monthly report of "THE TEXAS WEIGH,' official publication of the TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY shows 335 violations for over the 18,000 pound limit; 346 violations for over the 32,000 pound limit; 895 violations for over the gross limit of 72,000 pounds; and 427 for over size limits. In addition there were 495 violations for not having a Railroad Commission permit. Out of 28,637 equipment checks, violations amounting to 3,615 for the above and other causes were found. Some truckers register their vehicles under their capacity, and then over load that limit, and 330 violations were found in this category.

From the above official statistics it can be readily seen that the operators of these trucks do not take very seriously our present traffic laws, for out of the 28,637 equipment checks in February 12.60 per cent were found to have violated one or more of the regulations governing their operations upon our highways. With Texas' thousands of miles of highways, it has been estimated where one violator is apprehended, three get away, so Texas highways take a terrific beating with no compensation, and with utter disregard for the law.

Over the last decade three Presidents have advocated and sent to the Congress, messages for proper and equitable user-charges for the use of highways, airports, barge canals and rivers, and other public built facilities, but so far little has been done to equilize and make the users of these facilities bear their fair share of their cost and upkeep. At present there is before the Congress bills to do this, but with the myriads of other legislation, there seems to be little hope of any of it passing, and the average taxpayer will continue to pick up the check, as usual.

Texas at present is spending many millions of dollars each year for construction of maintenance of these highways, and it would appear prudent on the part of our officials and the Legislature to protect this enormous investment, and at least recover for part if not all of the damage that is daily being inflicted on the highways by these over-sized and over loaded trucks, through proper user charges. The License and Weights Division of the Department of Public Safety who are charged with the apprehension of these violators is doing a good job, but this division is woefully under staffed, and it is one of the State's divisions that more than pays its own way. Its size should at least be tripled, to promote respect for our highways laws, and to prevent damage to our highways.

An average of $12.6 million a day in health insurance benefits was paid to the American public by insurance companies in the first nine months of 1964, the Health Insurance Institute reports. This was an increase of $1.3 million a day over the comparable period of 1963. The 1964 payments were ahead of the previous year for all five types of health insurance -- hospital expense, surgical expense, regular medical expense, major medical expense, and loss-of-income insurance.

THREE JUNE 17TH'S

Americans were celebrating June 17 as the day when Yankees showed portentous staying power against British troops on Bunker Hill in 1775. Icelanders were celebrating the same day because on June 17, 1944, they took full freedom from Danish rule. But many people in Germany also were observing the day because of its importance to self-determination in their country.

It was on June 17, 1953, that East Germans rebelled unsuccessfully against Soviet domination (if any such uprisings can ever be called really unsuccessful, being chapters in long stories of freedom eventually won). The East Germans sought relief from intolerable working conditions imposed on them under communism. They also hoped for reunification of their nation.

After the rebellion was crushed Soviet authorities said it had been engineered by Western agents. The obvious absence of preparation, the spontaneous and too often disorderly East German manifestations, all tended to discredit the Soviet charges.

On June 17, 1964, Chancellor Erhard of West Germany said: "History teaches us that the elemental driving force of a people which moves it toward its unity and freedom is one of the mightiest forces that there are." And President Eugen Gerstenmaier observed that "the Day of German Unity (June 17) gains in significance the longer the division of Germany lasts."

Meanwhile those nations which are now allied with West Germany hope that German interest in national unity will remain tempered by its interest in freedom -- a hope buttressed these days by German interest in a united Europe and Atlantic World.

A. Robert Smith, Washington correspondent of the Portland, Oregonian, writes: "It's fantastic! No word really carries adequate descriptive power to do justice to the world's most costly office building, and Washington's ugliest addition, the Rayburn Building in which senior congressmen will soon be sheltered in garish luxury . . . It's not so much the price tag itself -- well over $100 million -- but the tastelessness with which the money was squandered. This congressional office building . . . is a monumental symbol of one of the characteristics of this era in America; too much money and not enough taste. It's conspicuous consumption run riot. The Rayburn Building wouldn't even make a good ruin."

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

This July 1-3 marks the 101st anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, the turning point of the Civil War, the Catholic Digest observes.

In Glory Road, Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Bruce Catton has written: "One day they would make a park there, with neat lawns and smooth black roadways, and there would be marble statues and bronze plaques to tell the story in bloodless prose. Silent cannon would rest behind grassy embankments, their wheels bolted down to concrete foundations, their malevolence wholly gone, and here and there birds would nest in the muzzles. Visitors would stand by the clump of trees and look off to the west and see nothing but the rolling fields and the quiet groves and the great blue bank of the mountains."

GIVE HER CREDIT--

A young lady in San Francisco is trying to prove it is possible to live for a full month on a credit card without spending a cent of cash.

Her name is Ann Ayleen Foley. Her sponsor is a big bank which by sheer coincidence happens to issue the particular brand of credit card she is using.

Without taking anything away from Miss Foley, it is only stating a fact to say that even if she achieves her goal, she actually hasn't done such a much.

Many resourceful Americans are demonstrating that it is possible to go through life these days with practically no cash.

But they do, alas, need just a little cash now and then.

So all America is waiting to learn if Miss Foley can find a way to use her credit card on vending machines, parking meters, public pay phones and other public facilities where up to now a coin in the slot is worth a million credit cards in the hand.

The luck of the Irish to you, Miss Ann Ayleen Foley. We hope it's in the credit cards for you to come in a winner.

Think what it will mean to the rest of us!

Unfortunately, certain shutter settings aren't used often enough by some photographers and can slow down and become inaccurate. This is most often true of the settings at the extreme high speed end of the shutter dial, such as 1/500 and 1/1,000, and the very slow speeds such as one and 1/2 second. Camera owners can help prevent shutter sluggishness by working out these seldom - used but important settings between shooting sessions when their cameras are empty.

THE SEVENTH WELL

In the course of its exploration and development work, an American oil company drilled six wells at a desolate location in the Saudi Arabian desert. After more than three years of disappointment, the seventh well, drilled to a deeper level, came in, establishing the location of the vast Arabian oil fields. The investment of millions of dollars and years of time was rewarded. The world's available supply of oil was significantly increased, and most importantly, as the years have proven, the people of a backward country were given the opportunity to learn new skills and apply their talents to the development of their homeland.

In so many areas of the world, the material benefits of modern civilization are barely known to people whose way of life has remained virtually unchanged for hundreds of years. Investor-owned business and industry seek opportunity world-wide. It has the need, the know how and the capital to develop human and material resources in the restless and backward areas of the world. But political stability and the disposition to honor contracts entered into, on the part of host countries, is a prerequisite to foreign investments. The American oil industry, through such work as that accomplished in Saudi Arabia, has been an outstanding leader in promoting economic development, independent of government subsidy and domination, in the far corners of the earth.

12 FULL OUNCES - THAT'S A LOT

Sometimes it's a good idea for the fellow who writes the editorials to get away from the typewriter and do a little snooping on his own. So, we took a look in the kitchen pantry to see how our homemaker was faring in the great controversy over packaging and labeling. Was she being taken for a sucker, as some of our regulation-happy lawmakers in Washington seem to think? Does she need more protection? Is she confused? (We didn't say, that, dear, but Senator Hart did.)

But, back to the pantry. First, the staples: a 10-lb. sack of flour, a 5-lb. bag of sugar. Could we be sure? Well, it said so on the flour sack in 48-point type -- that's the size of some of the bigger headlines on the front page of this newspaper. The weight on the sugar bag was in somewhat smaller type - looked about like 36 point -- but still big enough to read clear across the room. Okay for sugar and flour. Even the little woman couldn't have been confused about these purchases.

The package of baking soda said it contained 1 lb. net -- plain as day. The peaches, pears and pineapple all duly reported the size of the can, the number of ounces net weight. Ditto for the tomato catsup, the chili sauce, the mustard, the hamburger relish -- all weights recorded in type sizes easily readable by the naked eye.

Paper napkins in a handy container -- 80 full count, it said. Just to be ornery we counted them and, by golly, there were 80 -- no more, no less. The roll of paper towels said 200, and we took their word for it. No room in the kitchen to count that many. Sure, the label did proclaim that this was the "big roll". How big is big? Well, research determined that the big roll with 200 towels is twice as big as the one with 100. We'll go along with that-- no confusion.

The detergent in a no-slip plastic ontainer was labeled "king size" but in bold type it said 1 qt. liquid. So, now we know what that means. And the tomato paste can was labeled "family size" so many ounces. Whose family? The average family of a mommy and daddy and two and one-half kids that Uncle Sam says is average?

If we can swallow that one about two and one-half kids, certainly we can't object to a manufacturer euphemistically telling the world that his tomato paste comes in family size.

In all our kitchen snooping only once did we come a cropper. The wife had bought a "pound cake," and do you know the label said 14 oz. Can you imagine that?

FLOWER FROG

If you need a "frog" in which to anchor flower stems for your table's centerpiece, half a lemon or orange rind is very handy. Squeeze out the juice first, of course, then punch holes in the rind with an ice pick, set it in the bowl flat side down, and stick the stems through the holes. The rind will hold the flowers securely and, when they finally get limp, you can throw the whole business away without the necessity of cleaning any metal gadgets.

DRESS TIPS: The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports that the term "hand tailored" does not mean that every stitch in a garment is hand-sewn. For practical reasons, all seams are machine-stitched. However, to carry a "Hand-Tailored" label, the coat must be made with at least 21 specified hand operations.

H. L. Hunt Says

GERRYMANDERING

Since the beginning of American politics, parties in power have sometimes used their legislative power to create for themselves an unfair advantage over opponents.

One party seeking to retain control over the state of Massachusetts revised the boundaries of its voting districts to its own advantage. In doing so, the party's legislators pushed through a redistricting bill that shaped voting districts so as to include enough of the party faithful in each district to eliminate any strongholds of the opposition.

This practice was not new, but this particular case was so blatant that it aroused widespread indignation. The districts were drawn up in rambling shapes that twisted and turned in many directions.

When one newspaper printed a map showing the new districts, their grotesque shapes caused many comments. One wag suggested that a particular district looked like a salamander. It was quickly dubbed a "Gerrymander," which was a play on the surname of Governor Elbridge Gerry, who actually had little to do with the legislature's corrupt scheme.

Nevertheless, Governor Gerry bore the brunt of the criticism, which led to his defeat for re-election in 1812. And from that time, the practice has been known as "gerrymandering."

With many states redistricting as a result of the Supreme Court's reapportionment orders, the "in" parties, particularly in one-party states, may be tempted to do a bit of gerrymandering.

The Texas Legislature, for instance, has split conservative Dallas voters up among four districts, two of which wind, some 450 miles across the state, or more than twice the length of Massachusetts.

Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- It was his first day of liberty in more than a month.

He had planned to spend it in town seeing the sights.

But it was 11 a.m. when Sgt. Daniel F. Hall, 22, of Pottstown, Pa., returned from a six-day patrol to the tent area of Able Company, 3rd Regiment, U.S. Marines.

By the time he had showered, shaved, put on his summer khakis, and hitched a ride, it was after 2 p.m. Since he had to start back by 7 o'clock, his day of liberty had dwindled to only five hours.

That was more than enough for the tall, hazel-eyed young sergeant, who is third in command of his rifle platoon.

"I thought it would do me good to get into town and have a change of scenery," said Hall, whose cheekbones have been burned cherry red by the dozen or more patrols he has been on since he came here March 10.

Sipping a cup of coffee at the USO building here, Hall told of his big day off from the war:

"I've spent most of it trying to find some milk or ice cream. No luck. When I get home the first thing I'm going to do is to go to a supermarket and buy a gallon of milk. That's what I miss.

"I walked around the streets looking for something to buy. I bought a tin trunk for $3. I wanted to get something nice as sourvenirs for my wife, Suzanne, and my children - Daniel F. Jr., - he's 4-and my daughter, Lisa Marie - she's 2 1/2. But I couldn't find anything worth sending. Just a lot of junk.

"I walked along the waterfront and saw the old ladies selling bread and straw mats and quarreling over fish the sampans had just brought in, and a bunch of kids followed me hollering, 'Hello, Kay.'"

"I was feeling kind of weird. I just wanted to get away from everybody, and maybe listen to a few records. I wasn't exactly homesick. Everybody wants to go home.

"Then I passed a hotel where another Marine and I had lunch together the last time I had liberty. That made me feel blue, because it wasn't long after that he was killed, one of only two guys our company has lost. He was a nice guy. I remember we talked about home," said Hall.

"You know, this is the first war I've been in, and it is kind of hard to classify. One of the enemy's village recruits can take a few potshots at you, then hide his gun, and you can't tell him from a rice farmer. We have to be awful careful about firing."

The sergeant looked at his watch. He still had an hour and a half liberty.

I asked the sergeant if he minded returning to the hills after so short a leave.

"Well, I'm not crazy about batting around those hot hills and being shot at," he replied slowly, "but that is the job we were sent over here to do.

"I think about life quite a lot when I'm sleeping out there on the ground under the stars. And it seems to me the trick in life is do do well whatever you set out to do. If you do, you're fat."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- During the height of the Dominican crisis, U. S. intelligence agencies were tapping wires all over the Caribbean, including the telephone of ex - president Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

Having been ousted by the military in 1963, Bosch was credited with masterminding the revolution to get back in power. American intelligence agencies, therefore, wanted to find out what he was planning and who was behind him.

They picked up some interesting phone messages, including one phone call from Santo Domingo reporting that one of the rebel leaders had been shot.

"See that he is shot in the back and then announce to the press that the Americans shot him," ordered Bosch.

Another intercept which U. S. intelligence agencies picked up was an instruction from the Panamanian government to its OAS ambassador in Washington advising him not to support the United States openly, yet not to do anything which might embarrass the United States.

DE GAULLE GETS RABID

The American embassy in Paris has warned the State Department that the United States might just as well reconcile itself to a NATO without the key country NATO was organized to protect--France.

The anti-American policy of President De Gaulle has become so bitter that cabled instructions were sent to French ambassadors in five Latin-American countries to work actively against American policy in the Dominican Republic at the time the United States intervened.

"While the ordinary Frenchman is not much concerned with foreign affairs," reports the American embassy, "they would undoubtedly be up in arms if they were aware of these instructions.

"De Gaulle has become almost violently anti-American to the point that this is almost a phobia," reports the embassy. "There's no chance whatever of any compromise."

There has not been a serious deterioration in general French attitudes towards America, U. S. diplomatic observers believe. "But if De Gaulle runs out the big guns this could happen. The constant flow of biased and distorted information results in the French public being gradually infected by anti-U. S. propaganda."

It's not believed that De Gaulle will pull France out of NATO before December 15. However, as De Gaulle warms to his election campaign, he will be harping more and more on the anti-American theme and will probably climax it by severing French relations with NATO after mid-December. All this after 180 years of close French-American friendship and after two world wars in which the United States landed troops in Europe to go to the aid of beleaguered France.

LBJ'S JUDGES

With the Negro voting rights bill about to become law, there's increasing interest as to whom the president will appoint to the vacancies on the fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

These are vacancies traditionally filled by Mississippi and Texas judges, and if the fifth Circuit doesn't stay liberal, all the legislation Congress can pass in a decade will not materially help racial imbalance which President Johnson is trying to correct.

Judicial procedures are such that a majority of segregation-minded judges on this court could stall the march of the Negro toward the goal set by Johnson.

This is the reason why old Southern friends of the President are putting on the heat to appoint another old friend, ex-governor Jim Coleman of Mississippi. This would change the present 4-3 liberal majority on the fifth Circuit to 4 to 4.

There is also a lot of skirmishing regarding the judicial vacancy for Texas. Here Sen. Ralph Yarborough has proposed Fagan Dickson, Austin attorney, or L. N. D. Wells, Jr., of Dallas, both excellent lawyers and excellent choices.

When the President failed to act on these, Sen. Yarborough wrote the White House that he would be delighted to see either one of three federal district judges promoted to the Circuit Court--Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas, who swore Lyndon in as president after the Kennedy assassination; Judge Homer Thornberry, an old friend of the President's, or Ben Connally, brother of the late Sen. Tom Connally and far more reactionary than his senatorial brother.

The President is reported leaning toward Judge Hughes, partly for sentimental reasons, partly because he wants to appoint more women to public office.

NOTE: When it comes to patronage, LBJ is inclined to treat Sen. Yarborough like a country cousin who already owes him money and is asking for more to spend on beer and women. In other states, senators have a lot of influence when it comes to recommending federal judges. But when it comes to Texas, Lyndon figures he knows best.

TEMPER OF THE TIMES

How concerned people are becoming over Viet Nam was indicated at a giant SANE rally in Madison Square Garden after which 2,500 of the audience staged a march, at 11:40 p.m., to the United Nations Plaza.

It was the administration's most vigorous critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D - Ore., who touched off the demonstration.

"We meet here a few blocks away from the citadel of international justice the United Nations," he said. "I now call upon my President to go before that tribunal and ask for a special assembly meeting and announce that he is ready to lay before it the threat to peace, that he is ready to substitute the rule of reason for the rule of jungle law in the jungles of Viet Nam."

Shortly after the Madison Square Garden rally ended, Morse and Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby specialist, led the march, two by two, to the UN Plaza where they were joined by another thousand people for another rally which continued until 1 a.m.

Inside Labor

SIGNS OF THINGS TO COME?

Secretary of Labor Urges Year's Paid Sabbatical For All U.S. Workers

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It has not been publicly reported, but Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz did tell some union people the other day that every worker in every industry should have a paid sabbatical similar to that enjoyed by teachers.

This would give each employe a full year off with pay, somewhere along the line.

Then Mr. Wirtz's built-in prudence caught up with his eloquence. "My sabbatical idea is full of bugs," said he with caution. "So it may not work."

But, he added, the time had come to have the idea discussed so middle-aged and older folks could enjoy leisure time or return to schools and universities.

Frequently it is difficult to discern where Mr. Wirtz's whimsy merges with realism. But there is no doubt that his listeners and important labor policy-makers do not believe that a sabbatical is improbable or that the thought is full of bugs.

It is, in fact, one of labor's goals, though much less is said of it than of the campaign for a 35-hour week. It makes no dramatic headlines because it takes the form of longer and longer vacations. This now is the most significant common cause shared by thousands of local unions.

There is, for example, a dynamo on wheels known as Harry Van Arsdale Jr., the leader of New York's electrical construction workers, who startled the nation four years ago with a successful drive for a five-hour day. That made the national headlines.

When he and his union's high command signed their new contract recently, there was scarcely a note though he made a second breakthrough, this time in the field of vacations.

This is doubly significant because vacations are rare in the building and construction field. The men work as long as they can because of winter layoffs. Yet Van Arsdale won a three-week annual vacation for those of his people who have been in the industry for 20 years.

Unprecedentedly the men get credit for time they put in at shipyards during the big war, or at defense installations, and in the armed services. They also receive seniority credit for the time worked in any part of the country in the employ of any electrical contractor.

For the moment the dramatic impact won't be felt. But this is the beginning. Now Van Arsdale plans to cut down the length of time a man will have to spend in the electrical construction field in order to qualify for a vacation from the firm which employs him.

At the same time the vacation time will grow longer and longer — and this is in a field where vacations have been virtually non-existent. Remember Van Arsdale is the man who put the New York City electrical contracting industry on a 25-hour week.

In other fields, one-month to three-month vacations are the norm. One union in the maritime field has won a six-months' holiday for its members. Labor technicians everywhere are working on vacation patterns which in a decade will be sabbaticals, not quite the length of the teachers' but certainly beginning to edge in on them.

This definitely will not mean that the Van Arsdales or the George Meanys will give their shorter-work-week drive a holiday. Indeed, there is nothing sacred even about the 35-hour week.

The same day Wirtz spoke of sabbaticals for all, Meany said:

"We must immediately go to a 35 - hour week. And in a few years from now the 35-hour week will not be short enough."

And already there are rumblings from influential labor circles seeking a four-day week of 32 hours and less.

Though statements and actions in these directions were noticeable to the insider during this past week, they were not mere spring fever symptoms.

Though unobserved, they are the crackling drives inside labor.

Bucs Drop Cards In Ninth 10 to 9 On Stargell's Homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two errors set the stage for Willie Stargell's three-run, ninth-inning homer Wednesday night and a 10-9 victory for Pittsburgh over the Cardinals in St. Louis. The loss was the 11th for St. Louis against only four victories in its current home stand.

Los Angeles swept a twi-night doubleheader from the A's in Kansas City, 7-1 and 5-4. George Brunet's five-hitter kept the A's at bay in the first game and Joe Adcock's sixth-inning solo homer provided the winning margin in the second contest.

Pittsburgh had to come from behind twice to defeat the Cards. The Pirates used 23 players, every man on the roster except for pitchers Bob Veale and Don Cardwell, in their fight to overtake the Cards.

Stargill led the Pirate attack with three hits in five times at bat.

Donn Clendenon hit a two-run homer in the eighth to give the Pirates a temporary 7-7 tie with the Cardinals.

Don Schwall, the seventh Pittsburgh pitcher of the night, received credit for the victory with one and one-third innings of relief. Barney Schultz was the loser in relief.

Kansas City's only run in the first game Wednesday came on a sacrifice fly in the seventh. The Angels, meanwhile, had accumulated three in the second inning, two in the fourth and two in the fifth. Adcock drove in two of the runs on two doubles. Fred Talbot started for the A's and took the defeat.

Kansas City took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the night-cap, but Bobby Knoop's run-scoring single in the third and Willie Smith's two-run, fourth inning homer put Los Angeles back in control. Jim Fregosi singled in another run for the Angels in the fifth.

Consecutive singles by Ken Harrelson, Ed Charles and Bill Bryan gave the A's their third run in the fifth and Rene Lacheman's single scored the final Kansas City run in the eighth.

Roland Sheldon lost it and Bob Lee was the winner in relief.

Kansas City is idle today while the Cardinals close out their home stand tonight against the Pirates. Bob Gibson will start for St. Louis and Vernon Law for Pittsburgh.

First National And Security Federal Win Contests

Two Little League pitchers locked up last night, each pitching 4 hit baseball, with Security Federal downing Leslie Insurance 3 to 2.

Ship was the loser for Leslie, with McConnell picking up the win for Security Federal. Overby started for Security Federal, he was relieved in the fourth inning by McConnell.

Beck, Security Federal first baseman, led his team in hitting with two singles. Hicks and Brannum had one hit each, Hicks ripped a double in the fourth inning.

This was the first defeat of the season for Leslie Insurance. Ryan, Rofkahr, Colwick and Ship had one hit each to pace the Security Federal hitting attack.

NEW YORK AP -- Jockey Bobby Ussery rode five winners at Aqueduct Wednesday, the second time this year he has accomplished the feat.

Lopez To Lead All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was named today to manage the American League All-Stars against the National League All-Stars at Minneapolis-St. Paul on July 13.

American League President Joe Cronin said Lopez was selected because Yogi Berra, who managed New York to the league pennant last year and who would have automatically been the All-Star manager, is no longer in the league.

Lopez, patriarch of league managers with 14 years of managerial experience, guided the White Sox to a second-place finish last year.

This will be the fourth All-Star Game for Lopez as manager. His teams lost three previous encounters with their National League counterparts.

"I feel that Lopez earned the honor through his outstanding performance with the White Sox last season, as well as in recognition of his distinguished career as an American League manger," Cronin said in making the selection.

This marks the second year in a row that Lopez has been the All-Star manager through succession. Last year, he moved into the post because Ralph Houk, who had managed New York to the pennant in 1963, vacated the manager's desk for the role of general manager of the Yankees.

American League players will vote on the eight starting players, exclusive of pitchers. Lopez will name all the pitchers, as well as batting-practice pitchers and catchers, coaches and trainers.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

Distribution of permits for a special nine-day teal season, scheduled to open September 18, will begin about June 25.

The Conservation Commission has been notified by the United States Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife that the permits will be shipped to arrive on or before that date.

Permits can be obtained free by writing to the Conservation Commission either at the central offices in Jefferson City or the metropolitan offices in St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Bureau said the permits will be in the form of a double postcard, with one section for the hunter and the other for records. Hunters will be required to furnish information for the form when they apply for permits, and are asked to be particularly careful to include their county of residence and state hunting permit number.

The special season, which will precede the regular duck season this year, will give hunters a chance to harvest the blue-wing teal, which migrate earlier than most other species. It will also provide the Bureau with some needed information on teal as well as on those who hunt them.

The Bureau had established a cut-off on permit distribution 30 days before the special season opens. With Missouri's season opening September 18, permits will not be distributed after August 18.

Palmer Worried More About His Caddy Than Nicklaus

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Arnold Palmer appeared to be more concerned about his caddy's welfare than he was about Jack Nicklaus today when he set out in quest of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

The Open is one of the four major tourneys that support Palmer's throne as this country's premier golfer, a position that is shaky and insecure in the face of the challenge by the bull-strong 25-year-old from Columbus, Ohio.

Palmer, however, mentioned Nicklaus not at all and his caddy several times after his final preparations over the vast, rolling acres of the Bellerive Country Club course, at 7,191 yards the longest ever for an Open.

"I hope he makes it," Palmer grinned. "He's a kind of skinny kid." The caddy is Jack Wallace, a lanky, 15-year-old who is greatly impressed with his good fortune.

Palmer's first act after sizing up his caddy was to strip his bag. He discarded a No. 4 wood and at least three irons then had the boy heft it.

"How's that?" he asked. "Too heavy? Lemme see what else I've got in there."

But underlying his casual banter is the certain — though unspoken — knowledge that he desperately needs to win this 65th Open; that he needs not only to finish higher than tourney favorite Nicklaus but win the whole shootng match.

The last year and a half has been a continuing frustration for the powerful, Ligonier, Pa., master — he has won only once in a year — but he mentions it only obliquely.

"My game is not as good as it has been," he said, "but it's better than it has been recently. It still needs a lot of work.

"But," almost defensively, "it's not that bad, hasn't been for about a year. I'm just finishing second instead of first, that's all. Second four times in a row."

One of the seconds was a tie with Gary Player, nine strokes back of Nicklaus' record-shattering 271 victory in the Masters, a triumph so overwhelming that many feel it vaulted the bulky blond to the No. 1 position held by Palmer for many years.

The victory also triggered his drive toward a professional grand slam — winning the Masters, Open, British Open and PGA in a single year. It's never been accomplished.

"I need to win one real bad," Palmer admitted.

Five Football Cards Sign Contracts

ST. LOUIS, June 18 -- Center Bob DeMarco and the four men who flank him -- tackles Bob Reynolds and Ernie McMillan and guards Irv Goode and Ken Gray -- have signed their 1965 contracts with the Football Cardinals, it was announced today.

The big quintet has become a solid unit for the Cardinals, and is expected to be one of the outstanding offensive lines in the National Football League.

Averages for the five men bring out some of the reasons for excellence. The group averages 6-4 in height and 253 pounds in weight, is just over 26 years of age and has four years of NFL experience. This blend of youth and experience is expected to be a key factor in the Big Red's performance in 1965.

Gray, all-pro guard and offensive captain, is the veteran of the unit. The Texan from Howard Payne College will be starting his eighth NFL season at the age of 29. He is the shortest of the group at 6-2, but is well regarded around the league as an outstanding blocker, both for passes and the running game, and as a leader of the Cardinal offense. He was third in league-wide voting for the "outstanding blocker" award.

Goode, the other guard and also a Pro Bowl selection last season, is the baby of the group at 24, though he will be starting his fourth season. A first-round draft choice from the University of Kentucky, Goode has played tackle, guard and center for the Cardinals and has been outstanding at all positions. He is 6-5 and weighs 250.

DeMarco, rapidly gaining recognition as one of the top centers in the league, is 6-3, weighs 240 and will be in his fifth NFL season at the age of 26. A graduate of the University of Dayton who came to the Cardinals as a guard candidate, the New Jersey native switched to center in 1962 and has been a standout there ever since.

Tallest man on the squad at 6-6, right tackle McMillan weighs 260, is 27 and will be in his fifth season with the Cardinals. A graduate of the University of Illinois, McMillan had an outstanding year in 1964. His pass blocking is excellent, and he has the agility and speed to lead running plays to the outside.

Reynolds, hampered by injury late in the season, is fully recovered and ready to bid for his starting left tackle berth again. A graduate of Bowling Green University, he is 6-5, weighs 265 and is in his third campaign. Very strong, he is becoming a top-flight blocker.

Goode, McMillan and Reynolds are among the 19 Cardinals now living all year round in St. Louis. DeMarco makes his home in Dayton and Gray lives in Llano, Texas.

TEEING TENDERFEET—Three members of golf's expanding family of brilliant young tournament professionals are, from left, Ray Floyd, Bert Yancey and Kermit Zarley. Cousin's Lead In Base Stealing

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The American League base stealing race has turned into a family affair.

Bert Campaneris of the Kansas City Athletics swiped his 21st base of the year Wednesday night to break a deadlock for the A. L. lead with his second cousin, Los Angeles outfielder Jose Cardenal.

When the Angels moved into Kansas City for a three-game series Tuesday, Cardenal had stolen 20 bases and held what appeared to be a safe two-base advantage. But cousin Bert turned on the speed Tuesday night and pilfered second in both the first and second innings.

Cardenal attempted larceny only once, but was cut down by a perfect peg from catcher Rene Lachemann to Kansas City shortstop Campaneris.

In a doubleheader Wednesday night, Campy stole his 21st base of the year in the second game. Cardenal went 2-for-7 in the twin-bill, but never had a chance to increase his stolen bases total.

Both Campaneris and Cardenal are from Mantanzas, Cuba. Cardenal recalls when he and Campaneris were young "we run around a lot."

Both of them still do, to the dismay of rival pitchers and catchers.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1965

Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us. . . .But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image. (Daniel 3:17-18)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for great biblical characters who remained true to Thee. May we so live that when the greatest test comes we can confidently believe Thou wilt deliver us. In Thy Son's name we offer our prayer. Amen.

Paul H. Davis:

One of the tests for positive thinking, for constructive thinking, is to test one's idle moments. At those times, is one's mind turning over negative critical thoughts; fighting battles that have been won or lost; rehashing senseless arguments? If so, then one is out of tune. But if one is thinking how to improve a situation, how to gain a worthwhile objective, then one is one the constructive side of life.

Dominican Death Toll Totals 23

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The toll of American dead in the Dominican Republic has risen to 23 with the announcement that three U.S. paratroopers were killed in shooting this week.

The rebel leader, Col. Francis Caamano Deno, claimed Wednesday that 67 Dominicans were killed and 265 wounded in the heavy firing between U.S. forces and rebel supporters on Tuesday.

The Inter-American Peace Force announced that a U.S. paratrooper was killed Wednesday morning and two other U.S. soldiers died of wounds suffered in the fighting Tuesday.

Another 33 U.S. soldiers were reported wounded in shooting Tuesday and Wednesday between the peace force and the rebels in downtown Santo Domingo. A Brazilian officer wounded Tuesday was taken off the critical list.

Firing was heavy for more than three hours Wednesday afternoon along the northern corridor of the international security zone. U.S. paratroopers fired 50-caliber machine guns, recoilless rifles and other automatic weappns at buildings in the crowded slum area where snipers were believed hiding.

Caamano gave his report of casualties in the rebel sector at a news conference and accused U.S. troops of committing "an act of genocide without precedent in our country." The previous unofficial count of Dominican casualties was 26 dead and more than 75 wounded.

The rebel leader charged that a Red Cross center in Ozama fortress was "grotesquely bombed" and women and children were killed in the fortress on the west bank of the Ozama River. It faces U.S. positions on the east bank.

Caamano also repeated rebel charges that the U.S. troops opened fire on the rebels Tuesday, touching off the 12-hour battle. The mediating team of the Organization of American States reported earlier that the rebels fired first.

Rebel leaders claimed that the U.S. objective was to force the rebels into a more flexible negotiating position.

An OAS spokesman announced that the American troops took 280 prisoners in extending their lines four blocks below the international corridor during the fighting Tuesday.

The Americans pulled back two blocks, but the OAS committee said the other blocks would be held until Caamano gave "satisfactory assurances that this type of violation of the cease-fire, resulting in death and injuries to civilian and military personnel, will not occur again."

American officials took the view that the outbreak was inspired by a sharply anti-U.S. demonstration in the rebel sector Monday at which a speaker for the pro-Castro 14th of June Movement urged "liquidation of Yankee imperialists in the country."

Colonel Sets Anti-Beatle Record; Turns in 12 Medals

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — A colonel set a record for anti-Beatleism today by sending 12 medals back to Queen Elizabeth II.

Col. Frederick Wagg, 74, veteran of two world wars, joined the protest movement against the award of the M.B.E. — Member of the Order of the British Empire — to the lank-haired pop quartet.

He also resigned from Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party and canceled a $33,600 bequest to it.

"Decorating the Beatles," said the colonel, "has made a mockery of everything this country stands for.

"I've heard them sing and play and I think they're terrible."

At least six holders of the M.B.E. already had mailed their insignia — a heavy silver cross — back to Buckingham Palace.

Wagg's gesture dwarfed them all. Along with protests to the queen, the queen mother and Prime Minister Wilson he sent:

The Mons Star, the General Service Medal and the Victory Medal from World War I; The North West Frontier Medal from Indian Army service between the wars; The 1939-40 Star, Battle of the Atlantic Star, North Africa Star, Defense Medal and Victory Medal from World War II; And the Belgian Order of Leopold, and the French Croix de Guerre and Croix de Resistance.

He said he sent back the foreign decorations because they were granted with royal approval. Britons may not accepted foreign medals without royal permission.

The only medal he is keeping, he said, is the Croix de Lorraine which Gen. Charles de Gaulle handed to him personally after World War II.

Hundreds of letters about the Beatles award cascaded into the prime minister's office at No. 10 Downing Street and Buckingham Palace. Officials said roughly two in three opposed it — but some of the opposition came from supporters of rival pop groups.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony Celebrezze tells of the time he asked an elderly woman what she though of Medicare. "Oh, I like it very much," she replied. "I took it for a month and lost ten pounds." — Les Carpenter

Voting Rights And Legal Wrongs

A Commentary on S. 1564, the proposed "Voting Rights Act of 1965," prepared and distributed as a public service by the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government.

THE PROPOSED VOTING RIGHTS ACT OF 1965

On March 15, 1965, President Lyndon Johnson, speaking before Congress "for the dignity of man and the destiny of democracy," urged that body to join him "in working long hours, nights, and weekends if necessary" to enact a bill designed "to protect the right of every American to vote in every election that he may desire to participate in."

After describing the main operative provisions of his proposed legislation, Mr. Johnson stated: "There is no constitutional issue here. The command of the Constitution is plain."

The Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government respectfully disagrees with Mr. Johnson. If any command of the Constitution of the United States can ever be characterized as "plain," the Commission believes that those provisions relating to voting rights are "plain" prohibitions against enactment of the legislation proposed by the President.

The Commission's Executive Director, Sam S. Crutchfield, Jr., discusses below some of the constitutional objections to the proposed legislation.

Q. What is the purpose of the Administration's proposed legislation?

A. H. R. 6400, introduced in the House of Representatives, and S. 1564, its companion bill introduced in the Senate, proclaim themselves to be bills "to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Q. What are the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment?

A. That Amendment provides.

Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this Article by appropriate legislation.

Q. Does the Commission object to this Amendment, or legislation to implement this Amendment?

A. The Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government most certainly does not object to the Fifteenth Amendment. We abhor any practice that prevents any American citizen from exercising his constitutional right to vote.

Nor are we opposed to any legislation appropriately designed to prevent discrimination based on race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Q. Then why does the Commission object to the proposed "Voting Rights Act"?

A. The Commission objects to the bill because in our view it would pervert the Constitution.

Q. Explain that last statement.

A. Certainly. The administration's identical bills, H. R. 6400 and S. 1564, purport to be bills to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment's commandment that a citizen's right to vote cannot be denied or abridged on grounds of race or color. That some Negroes have been denied this right because of their race, and solely because of their race, is a most deplorable fact.

However, the real effect of the measure, if Congress is so ill-advised as to enact it, will be to obliterate one more power reserved to each of the States by the Constitution.

Q. What provisions of the proposed legislation lead you to this conclusion?

A. The President's proposals from beginning to end, are all violative of the Constitution of the United States.

Q. Perhaps at this point you had better discuss, with some specificity, the major provisions of the proposed legislation.

A. H. R. 6400, and its twin S. 1564, contain the following provisions:

The Act shall be known as the "Voting Rights Act of 1965." (A comment on this later.)

Section 3 (a) provides that "no person shall be denied the right to vote in any Federal, State, or local election because of his failure to comply with any test or device" which was in use on November 1, 1964, and with respect to which "the Director of the Census determines that less than 50 per centum of the persons of voting age, residing therein were registered on November 1, 1964, or that less than 50 per centum of such persons voted in the Presidential election of November 1964."

"Test or device" is defined as "any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting, (1) demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class."

Section 4 (a) provides that "whenever the Attorney General certifies (1) that he has received complaints in writing from twenty or more residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under section 3 (a) alleging that they have been denied the right to vote under color of law by reason of race or color, and that he believes such complaints to be meritorious, or (2) that in his judgment the appointment of examiners is otherwise necessary to enforce the guarantees of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Civil Service Commission shall appoint as many examiners in such subdivision as it may deem appropriate to prepare and maintain lists of persons eligible to vote in Federal, State, and local elections. Such appointments shall be made without regard to the civil service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, and may be terminated by the Commission at any time."

Section 5 (e) sets forth the following provision:

No person shall be denied the right to vote for failure to pay a poll tax if he tenders payment of such tax for the current year to an examiner, whether or not such tender would be timely or adequate under State law. An examiner shall have authority to accept such payment from any person authorized to make an application for listing, and shall issue a receipt for such payment. The examiner shall transmit promptly any such poll tax payment to the office of the State or local official authorized to receive such payment under State law, together with the name and address of the applicant.

Finally, Section 8 provides:

Whenever a State or political subdivision for which determinations are in effect under section 3 (a) shall enact any law or ordinance imposing qualifications or procedures for voting different than those in force and effect on November 1, 1964, such law or ordinance shall not be enforced unless and until it shall have been finally adjudicated by an action for declaratory judgment brought against the United States in the District Court for the District of Columbia that such qualifications or procedures will not have the effect of denying or abriding rights guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment. All actions hereunder shall be heard by a three-judge court and there shall be a right of direct appeal to the Supreme Court.

These then, are the major provisions of the bills in question.

Image Tarnished In Latin America

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States risked its good-neighbor image by its military action in the Dominican Republic. The image now is tarnished in many Latin-American eyes.

But even as the Dominican crisis drags on, threatening to be worse in the long run than when it began, the end results for some of Latin America may turn out better than had been expected at the outset.

That depends on Latin Americans.

Some consolation for whatever loss of prestige the United States may have suffered from the Dominican intervention can come from a few unexpected results in Latin-American countries.

It all could be nullified, however, at any moment by one more crisis like the Dominican Republic—the next time not on a little Caribbean island but in a mainland country, such as Guatemala, for example, where such a crisis would hit with explosive force.

Barring such an explosion, however, some Latin-American governments seem to have been strengthened, to have more confidence than before in the face of extremist threats. Some have tartly back-sassed Uncle Sam to the extent that noticeably more foreign policy independence may be developing.

One well-informed U.S. source says that would be all to the good. The U.S. aim, he says, should be development of Latin-American policies independent of United States and Communist camps. He contends this would help Latin politics on the road to more internal stability.

Feelings in Hispanic America were bruised by the U.S. military action in the Caribbean. Even in countries which supported U.S. efforts to raise an inter-American force the U.S. troop landings were condemned by some leaders. Some said it would give a new handle to extremists and a new point of attack from which to launch violence.

The wild outbreaks failed to materialize in most cities. Where there were demonstrations, they were tied in with domestic complaints and local issues. The Dominican Republic was dragged in for window dressing.

There was little mass support in any case.

Denunciation of the U.S. military action by some governments seemed to shield them from attack on this score from the extreme left. Sassing Uncle Sam appeared, in effect, to strengthen them, though in many instances political leaders carefully saw to it that denunciations did not get out of hand.

Some moderate and obviously responsible Latin-American leaders see, as a result of the crisis, a chance to bolster stability in South America. They expressed belief that more show of local independence of the United States in foreign policy would help in that direction.

One day when John, a 1st grader, returned home from school wearing an Indian-bead ring, his mother observed, "Oh, how nice! Did you make that ring yourself?"

"Yes, I did," replied John. "It was supposed to be a bracelet — but I'm a slow beader."

House Passes Breath Test

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House finally passed the breath test bill yesterday. It is designed to catch drunk drivers and force them off the road.

Passage by a 147-5 vote sent the bill back to the Senate for consideration of a House amendment. It is a saving clause, providing that if any section of the bill is declared unconstitutional the rest of it will continue in force.

It was the second day of argument over the measure. This time there were several amendments offered, some serious and some humorous.

Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-St. Louis County, tried to get the bill changed so the director of revenue would have discretion whether to revoke a driver's license for a year because he was suspected of driving while intoxicated. The amendment was defeated and Cantrell then announced he was opposed to the bill.

Rep. Ronald Reed Jr., D-Buchanan County, offered an amendment to make the revocation effective for the rest of the suspected driver's natural life.

He said he had listened to the arguments of members from "various outposts of sobriety" strongest one in 50 states. His amendment lost 11-133.

It is no new observation that in America a great premium is placed upon youth. Men and women are often congratulated upon their youthfulness when they should be commiserated with for their immaturity.

Corvair by Chevrolet

It's stylish, sporty and available with up to 180 frisky horsepower. See below what car experts say about its unique engineering and handling. Then see your dealer and see what a wonderful buy you can get right now!

Hot Rod
"On tight corners . . . will hold its own with anything on the road."

Sports Illustrated
"On test runs at GM's Michigan proving grounds the Corsa started and stopped with no dipping, and it cornered—even at wild speeds—with smooth intent and no sign of sway."

Car Life
"We'd feed the Corvair into the turn with increasing force on the steering wheel, applying as much power as was available, and come scorching out the other end of the curve without so much as a tailwag."

Motor Trend
"Not counting the Corvette, Corvair has the closest thing to performance handling characteristics you'll find on this side of the ocean, with no sacrifice in ride qualities."

Sports Illustrated
". . . a new American sports car that will be eminently acceptable at rallies but that can, in the American manner, double at church picnics."

Car and Driver
"We have to go on record and say that the Corvair is —in our opinion—the most important new car of the entire crop . . . and the most beautiful car to appear in this country since before World War II."

Car and Driver
". . . the superfluous has been stripped away from a classic form and the result is a clean, beautiful car. The new Corvair's styling is going to attract most people—it's an obvious selling point. Its hidden virtue, handling, will soon become apparent to—and much appreciated by—the enthusiast driver."

Senate Expected to Pass Bill on New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON AP -- The Senate is expected to pass within a month the administration bill aimed at turning a national spotlight on city problems by creating a Cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Development.

If it does, Senate sources wouldn't be too surprised if President Johnson names Robert C. Weaver, a Negro who heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the first secretary of the new department.

This was the educated guessing on Capitol Hill in the wake of House approval of the bill Wednesday by a 217-184 vote.

Johnson has never even hinted who he would name to head the new department, which would be the 11th of Cabinet rank and the first added since the Department of Health, Education and welfare was established by executive order in April 1953.

President John F. Kennedy, who originally suggested an urban affairs department, had announced he would name Weaver.

This was considered instrumental in House defeat of the proposal in 1962.

The bill would combine the activities of the Federal Housing Administration and the Federal National Mortgage Administration, both within Weaver's HHFA. In fact, Republicans suggested during the two days of House debate that all the legislation would accomplish would be to upgrade the housing agency.

Democrats rejected this argument.

The Senate has completed hearings on the bill and its Government Operations Committee is expected to endorse the measure toward the end of next week. But there is no great rush to bring the bill to the floor. Still, passage by mid-July is considered likely.

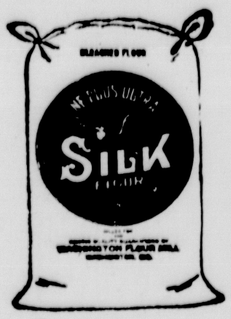

A total of 208 Democrats and 9 Republicans voted for the bill; 66 Democrats and 118 Republicans voted against it.

OLD-TIME RELAXATION STILL POSSIBLE WITH BIG TUBS

Ever long for the good old days when life was carefree living a bit difficult at times, but those big tubs are still here. Just ask your plumbing contractor for a 16-inch tub the next time you build or remodel. And if you want that old-fashioned stretch-out type, tell him to make it a five and one-half or six footer. They're still here, and they don't cost much more.

Edwin Way Teale in Journey Into Summer:

When first we came to the unfamiliar world of these treeless, 12,000 - foot - high peaks, they left us feeling small and lost, overawed and alien. Then we made friends with the little things: pink and white bistort scattered widely on slender stems, alpine anemone, the rosy finches and the pipits, the moss campion and snow willow. We became familiar with fragments of the whole. We went, bit by bit, from the particular to the general. And thus, advancing inductively from the small to the large, we came to know and love the mountains.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You say you go to experts in every field to help you with your answers. So why didn't you get some help with your advice to the person who wanted to know why women's feet hurt all the time?

If somebody wrote to you and said his head hurt all the time would you tell him to rub some cream on it and buy his hats one size larger? Well, when you told the person who wrote about women's feet, that the cure was to massage the feet with cream and to buy bigger shoes, I almost dropped my teeth in the coffee cup.

If you do not limit your practice of medicine to feet, Ann Landers, perhaps you can tell me why I have had a severe pain in my left arm for two weeks. I would like to save the price of a visit to the doctor's office. — CRITICAL CALVIN

Dear Critical: I must have grabbed you right in the heel, Achilles.

When a reader writes to me and complains of pain I always suggest he see a doctor. This reader asked a general question, however. He wanted to know why so many gals suffer from barking dogs. My reply was equally general. I suggested that if more women bought shoes that fit properly their feet would not hurt. If one woman wrote and said, "My feet ache," I'd say, "See a doctor."

Dear Ann Landers: I've learned quite a few things from reading your column and now I want to offer a few words, which might be of help to someone else. The subject: "Wives Who Keep An Eye On Their Husbands."

If there was ever a waste of time, girls — this is it. I learned from experience that if a man wants to cheat he'll find a way. If you watch him you'll only force him to figure out a way to outsmart you. And he'll do it.

My husband was a jazz musician — and very handsome. The girls fell for him like crazy. I used to go along on jobs to keep an eye on him. Well, he didn't date anybody after he finished playing, but I later learned he faked dental appointments and eye doctor appointments, invented a sick buddy in a sanitarium and lied about afternoon benefits at children's hospitals.

Finally he got me a part-time job as an usherette in a movie house so he could have the apartment to himself from 2:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. That's how I caught him.

Take it from me, girls, if a guy is decent you don't have to watch him. If he needs to be watched he isn't worth living with. — BATTLE SCARRED

Dear Scarred: Thanks for your excellent letter. Your advice also holds true for men who watch their wives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 13 years old and everyone says I have a beautiful voice. Even the choir master says my voice is lovely.

I want to be a professional singer but I have a problem. Every time I am asked to sing a solo in church I get so scared I can't make a sound. I stand there with my mouth open and nothing comes out. It's like my vocal cords are missing.

What good is a beautiful voice if nobody can hear it? How can I get over this? — NERVOUS NIGHTINGALE

Dear N.N.: It is not unusual even for the most experienced artists to be a bit nervous but you sound like a basket case, kiddo.

The experts say the way to combat ordinary stage fright is to take a deep breath and plunge ahead. And don't become unglued by a bad beginning. Keep telling yourself it's going to get better. If it doesn't get better, I suggest another profession.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SWIVEL AERATORS FOR KITCHEN SINKS

Next time you decide to buy another aerator for your kitchen faucet, consider the swivel type. A swivel aerator permits the flow of water to be directed to any part of the sink. Thus, not only is cleaning the sink made far easier, but shampooing (and many women do shampoo at the sink) becomes a simpler task, too.

WAYS OF NATURE

Nature in her carefree way
heals the scars of yesterday.
Lightens the heavens with moon and stars,
Pampers the earth with gentle showers.

Blesses the day with warming sun,
Shelters the night, when shadows come.
Cloaks the forest with mystery
Lets winding rivers flow fancy free.

Paints a rainbow across the sky,
Sprinkles stardust, where moonbeams lie.
The wiles of nature from spring unto fall,
With intriguing moods at her beck and call.

Congress Seeking Earliest Tax Cut

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress set up a tight schedule today to bring price cuts through excise tax reductions to U.S. consumers at the earliest possible date — perhaps Saturday.

Conferees from the House and Senate agreed Wednesday night on a compromise excise tax bill ultimately trimming $4.6 billion a year from the levies on a wide variety of goods, from automobiles to matches.

House leaders plan, barring unforeseen setbacks, to take up the compromise bill as the first order of business today. Since the conference version closely resembles the bill the House has already passed, quick approval was expected.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., one of the principal Senate conferees, said that chamber will act as soon as possible after the House votes.

Such a legislative schedule could send the measure to President Johnson in time for him to sign it Friday, bringing most tax cuts into effect Saturday.

Actually, the initial 3 per cent reduction in the automobile excise — $70 on an average car — and the repeal of the 10 per cent levy on the manufacturer's price on air conditioners are retroactive to May 15. Anyone who purchased such an article on that date or later would be eligible for a refund.

Tax cuts going into effect the day after the President signs the bill include repeal of the 10 per cent retail excise taxes on jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and luggage, and of the manufacturer's excise taxes on a variety of goods including appliances, radio and television sets, cameras, business machines, musical instruments and most sporting goods.

Most of the remaining exises, including taxes on theater tickets, cabaret checks and club dues, as well as the stamp taxes on real estate purchases, would go out either next Dec. 31 for Jan. 1.

The conference agreed on a schedule for automobile excise reductions slightly different from either the House or Senate versions, but did not change the provisions for the first 3 per cent cut on which the two chambers had agreed.

Under the compromise bill, the 10 per cent tax would be reduced to 7 per cent retroactive to May 15; 6 per cent effective next Jan. 1; 4 per cent Jan. 1, 1967; 2 per cent Jan. 1, 1968; and 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1969, and thereafter.

Another tax which, under the bill, would be phased out gradually, is the present 10 per cent levy on telephone service. It would be reduced to 3 per cent Jan. 1, then cut by stages to zero by Jan. 1, 1969.

Suit Against Anti-Poverty Program

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A lawsuit filed here takes issue with the federal anti-poverty program on the constitutional point of church-state separation.

Specifically challenged is Catholic participation in a preschool project for disadvantaged children partially financed with federal funds.

The legal test may be the first for Project Head Start, one aspect of the federal Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

Plaintiffs oppose use of three Catholic parochial schools in an eight-week summer project here to prepare children of low income families for school.

Involved is $54,850 in federal funds granted the Human Resources Corp., which administers the anti-poverty program in Kansas City and Jackson County, Mo.

The suit was filed Wednesday in Jackson County Circuit Court

"All of them look good," he added, and we're checking all of them. But nothing has turned up."

"We have no reason to suspect an abduction," he said. "We will continue to check every lead that somes to the department, but the ground search has been halted. Every vacant building in the area has been searched, and there is no sign," he told this reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Gill are under a doctor's care.

Routine checks were made Sunday when the child was reported missing around 4 p.m., and at 6 p.m., Chief Beard activated the auxiliary police. A search of the riverfront and residential area around the home began immediately and ended at noon Monday. Since that time, authorities and volunteers have searched, probed, and examined the area repeatedly.

Not the slightest trace of the infant has been found.

Cape's Most Intensive Ground Search Ended

Futile Hunt Uncovers No Sign of Girl

By JOE BEAN

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The most intensive search in this city's history ended late Wednesday on the same note it began -- futility.

The three-day, inch-by-inch search of more than a one square mile residential area and one and a half miles of riverfront by more than 200 citizens for two-year-old Elizabeth Ann Gill produced no lead on the child's location.

Police dogs, boats, volunteers, aerial photographs, and a sea plane were used as Police Chief Irvin E. Beard kept his 34-man force working around the clock in an effort to find the little girl, who walked away from her home at 235 S. Lorimier Sunday at 4 p.m.

"We don't know any place else to search," the Chief told this reporter yesterday. Pointing to an aerial photograph of the neighborhood, he said "all this area -- from the river back almost three-fourths of a mile by a mile and a half long --has been gone over intensively at least twice."

The youngest of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill, Betsy was wearing a green and white checked blouse, pink panties, and sandal - type moccasins when she was last seen. Betsy will be three in August, weighs about 22 pounds, and is three feet tall. She has light brown hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion.

The girl had been left Sunday in care of her 13-year-old sister, according to Chief Beard, while her mother was in Chicago attending the eighth-grade graduation of a son and her father was working in St. Louis. He is an electrician.

More than 150 Cape Girardeauans participated in a massive ground search Tuesday, after being briefed at 8 a.m. by Chief Beard. The volunteers were then split into teams of eight to ten persons each and assigned a specific area to cover. By 2 p.m., the last party had reported to the police station. Nothing had been found to indicate the girl's presence.

From the steep and rocky banks of the Mississippi River to the dense and marshy gulleys of Happy Hollow, local authorities, neighbors, and townspeople have searched every crevice, cistern, and sewer into which the infant could have fallen. Nothing has been found.

The Gill home is two blocks from the Mississippi River and the Morgan Oak street bridge, leading Chief Beard to suggest that Betsy fell into the river.

L. J. McClure, 331 S. Lorimier, told this reporter yesterday in an exclusive interview that children in the neighborhood played around the river bank. "One of the kids in the neighborhood told me," he said, "that they would stand on this rock and jump to that one (about seven feet below it and just inches above the river) where one of the other kids would catch them."

The child told him Betsy played this game too, he said.

The river bank has been checked every day by six boats, Chief Beard said. And although the ground search has ended, daily examinations of the bank will continue, he indicated.

Barges belonging to the Missouri Dry Docks Co., a barge construction firm immediately south of the place where Betsy could have fallen in -- and where the children played -- were moved in case the infant's body had been trapped beneath one of them. Nothing was found.

"There are indications she had been to the river before," the Chief explained. "The spot where the other children played -- directly under the Route 34 bridge -- is right next to a deep spot, and the water is swift."

To get to the riverfront, the child would have climbed down three embankments -- drops of 12, 10, and 15 feet before being close enough to jump to the flat rock next to the water.

Happy Hollow, a six-block square used as a city dump but presently being excavated and filled, was thoroughly examined, Beard said.

W. A. Turner, an employee of the Energy Coal Co., which has bins in Happy Hollow, said there are "holes in the eight-feet high fence which she could have crawled through." But he said he had been over the area himself "about a dozen times" and had seen nothing.

The area was also covered by search parties.

Phone calls from local citizens have been pouring ito the police station, Chief Beard said.

Floodwaters Batter Metropolitan Denver Area

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Floodwaters roaring out of mountain cloudbursts raced down the South Platte River and across the Denver area today, ripping out bridges and causing millions of dollars of damage.

The crest struck Denver shortly before midnight, but another crest three hours later flattened out before it reached suburban Littleton on the southern edge of the metropolitan area.

The second crest was reported by the Colorado Highway Patrol to be about 15 feet high — roughly the size of the initial surge — when it reached Waterton, 16 miles above Denver.

Even as the second threat melted away, the first crest was moving out onto the prairie lands northeast of Denver.

Evacuation warnings were sounded ahead of the rising waters and most residents of low-lying areas got out well ahead of the wave.

A power failure blacked out much of downtown Denver shortly before midnight. Other sections of the city also were affected.

Many residents of the Globeville area in North Denver were directed to evacuate their homes shortly before midnight. The city's packing houses and stockyards are located in the vicinity, although apparently high above the water line.

Denver Fire Chief Cassio Frazzini was swept from a rowboat early today in the middle of the torrent while trying to reach some of the trapped persons. He was rescued later as he clung to a tree along the edge of the raging torrent.

A crest estimated by the Colorado Highway Patrol at 15 to 20 feet high swept down the usually shallow South Platte as it roared into Denver from the south.

On the way, it tore out highway bridges, covered up roads and lapped menacingly at railroad trestles.

Gov. John A. Love made a personal inspection of some of the flood area and called it appalling and unbelievable.

Power and telephone service was disrupted in the Denver suburbs.

Sheriff Roy Vogt of suburban Arapahoe County said thousands of residents of Littleton and Englewood, Denver suburbs, were evacuated and confirmed that hundreds of homes were flooded as the waters rolled into the populous area. Vogt reported 200 house trailers were lost in one park west of the river at Littleton.

Evacuations preceded the flood crest as it moved across Denver from south to north. Among the buildings cleared was Denver's Union Station.

Five Emergencies

Five persons were treated and dismissed at the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

James Brase burned by ammonia; Rickie Washburn fell off pony; Lloyd Williams, ditch caved in; Glenn Ray Ross, ran into car; and Michael Richards, Matthews, bumped his head.

4. The City Bond Issue

10-Year Old Sewage Plant Must Expand to Meet Needs

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

Designed in 1955 with the ability to process 1,200,000 gallons of sewage per day, the Sikeston sewage treatment plant now handles over 2,000,000 gallons of sewage daily.

According to plant supervisor Richard Lucy, the sewage treatment facilities are now operating constantly above capacity, and soon will have to be expanded to keep pace with rapidly rising sewage flows from Sikeston's growing industrial, commercial, and residential areas.

This necessary expansion has been provided for in the $1,200,000 board of public works plan for improving the city's water and sewer systems. Exactly half of the proposal or $600,000 will be used to increase the capacity of Sikeston's sewage disposal system.

The most critical sewage problem facing the city is, of course, the insufficient size of the system, and so $220,000 have been allotted for the purpose of doubling the capacity of the main sewage treatment plant.

Plans also call for the expansion of Sikeston's two sewage lift-stations, which are presently operating very close to capacity. These two lift-stations pump sewage from the eastern and western edges of the city, where they are located, to the main sewage treatment plant.

The prospect of industrial development has also prompted the board of public works to propose the immediate construction of two new trunk sewers -- one to the west city limits along Malone Avenue, and the other to the Canvas Products area near the airport. These two areas are considered likely locations for new industry, and, as such, are badly in need of a sanitary sewer system.

Some of the funds from this $1,200,000 proposal will be set aside for future construction of a trunk sewer running north and south along the Frisco railroad from Murray Lane to Hardy Street, and then along West Street north to Salcedo Road. This trunk sewer will be constructed whenever residential, commercial, or industrial needs make it necessary.

These important improvements in Sikeston's sewage disposal system should meet the demands of a growing community for several years to come. Moreover, they will have the effect of reducing poilution, increasing property values, and promoting better public health.

POINTING TO THE AREA INTENSIVELY SEARCHED is Cape Girardeau Chief of Police, Irvin E. Beard. The last search was made up of seven teams, which were assigned a specific area using aerial photographic maps.

BETSY GILL played here on the bank of the river with her brothers and sisters. According to L. J. McClure, neighbor of the Gills, Betsy would jump from the rock (Top X) into the arms of a playmate standing on the rock below (Bottom X).

THIS IS THE HOME of Betsy Gill, who has been missing since Sunday afternoon. At the time she was noticed missing, the oldest person at the house was her 13-year-old sister. Her mother and father were in St. Louis.

All Plans Set For "Multi-Occupation"

Plans are set for Sikeston's "Multi - Occupation" adult training program to get underway June 28 for 400 trainees.

Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty said the program will provide basic education, guidance and vocational training to give persons not now employed preparation for jobs, remove them in some cases from welfare roles, and provide them the opportunity to make their own way.

Those to be trained are generally heads of families with an income of less than $1200 per year. Three hundred of the trainees will be adults and the other 100 will be high-school drop outs.

The students are selected and screened by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and then referred to the school for training. At the end of training or, whenever the student is employable, he will be referred to the Employment Security.

Students are to receive eight hours minimum training per day and will be granted subsistence payments to support themselves and families.

Taken from 20 Southeast Missouri counties, most of the enrollees are from Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard Pemiscot, New Madrid, Dunklin, and Butler counties.

If it is necessary, some may be trained the full 18 months to gain employment, Twitty said.

William Sikes, project director for the Board of Education, said the training program includes:

Basic Education--primarily of reading, writing and arithmetic, but also some attention given to government, communication, basic English and social sciences.

Guidance and Counseling--to develop attitudes leading toward good employee-employer relations and an understanding of the free enterprise system.

The trainees will be given exploratory experiences in vocations in order to determine their aptitude for further vocational training.

Sikes said that the areas of vocational instruction will probably be:

1. Automotive service--to include tune-up; used car reconditioning; body and fender; station attendants and tire changers.

2. Food Service--to include training for fry or short order cooks; waitresses, cooks helpers, dish washers, bakers or baker's helpers.

Down Two Migs Near Viet Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two Communist MIG17 fighters in flames today in a dogfight 50 miles south of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The clash occurred while the Phantoms were flying escort for other U.S. warplanes bombing targets about 20 miles north of Thanh Hoa.

The spokesman said four Communist jets appeared and turned toward the American planes as if they were going to attack. But apparently they were hit before they had a chance to open fire, he said.

One parachute was seen opening, but it was not known what happened to the Communist pilot. The other two MIGs escaped.

One plane was shot down by Cmdr. Louis C. Page of San Diego, Calif., who told newsmen in Saigon, "This was the first enemey aircraft I have shot down. Other than that, we were just doing a job."

The pilot of the second Phantom, Lt. (j.g.) E. D. Batson Jr. of Buffalo, N.Y., said: "I'm tickled to death."

The spokesman said the dogfight lasted only 29 seconds and that the Phantoms hit the enemy with air-to-air missiles.

It was presumed that the MIGs were North Vietnamese, although Navy planes have had one brush with Communist Chinese MIGs off Hainan Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Phantoms were flying at an altitude between 10,000 and 20,000 feet when they spotted the hostile aircraft.

Page was asked how they knew the MIGs were about to attack.

"If he's in your general area and headed toward you, you have to assume he's up to no good," the pilot replied.

The MIG17 is of Korean War vintage, armed with one 37mm cannon and two 23mm cannon. The Phantom, one of the fastest and most heavily armed fighters in the American arsenal, is equipped with heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles which home in on the exhaust trail of enemy jets.

The two pilots flew with their radio intercept officers to Saigon for a news conference. Page's officer was Lt. John C. Smith Jr. of Belleview, Ill., whose wife and children live in Powan, Calif. Batson's officer was Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Doremus of Montclair, N.J., whose wife and children live in Wilmington, Del.

Page, who served as spokesman for the group, declined to discuss the tactics used in shooting down the MIGs.

Page also declined to say whether the missiles used were Sidewinders or Sparrows. The Phantom carries both.

He said he assumed the MIGs were North Vietnamese. The four enemy planes were silver and bore the yellow and red insignia of North Viet Nam, he said.

U.S. airmen attacking North Viet Nam last reported spotting hostile planes June 1 while bombing an ammunition dump 45 miles southwest of Hanoi. Eight MIG fighters appeared but wheeled away when the American planes started to close in on them.

On April 4, Communist MIGs shot down two U.S. F105's on a bombing raid about 65 miles south of Hanoi. A pilot of an American F100 said he believed he hit one of the MIGs in that engagement and downed it.

On April 4, four MIG17s jumped four U.S. Navy F4B planes in the Gulf of Tonkin off Red China's Hainan Island, and U.S. officials said one MIG was reported downed.

Accidents

In an accident reported by the state highway patrol in this area Wednesday on Highway 61 two miles south of Cape Girardeau at 4:45 p.m. James Menz, Ilmo was injured.

A passenger in a car driven by Bobby J. Crane, 32, Cape Girardeau, Menz was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital with chest and leg injuries suffered when the car went out of control and overturned in a roadside ditch.

In an accident one mile west of Morehouse at junctions 114 and 60, a westbound 1964 Dodge driven by John Newman, 42, St. Louis, struck a 1964 Imperial, driven by Mrs. Aubrey Michael, 36, Benton, who was entering Highway 60 traveling south. The Newman car struck the left rear side of the Michael car.

More Americans To Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up its war effort in Viet Nam another notch, with 16,000 to 21,000 more American troops headed for the war zone.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday that nine more Army and Marine combat battalions, with supply and service units "will be in place in a few weeks."

The augmentation of American troop strength, long predicted, was taken at the request of the South Vietnamese government, the defense chief told a news conference. It will bring the total of U.S. troops in Viet Nam to between 70,000 and 75,000, he said.

Will still more go later?

McNamara parried that question this way:

"The secretary of state and I and the President have repeatedly said that we will do whatever is necessary to achieve our objective in South Viet Nam, and we won't do more than is necessary."

A week ago, the State Department and White House had versions about whether U.S. troops now could be committed to offensive action, rather than only defensive. The question came up again, in another form, in McNamara's news conference: What is the mission of U.S. ground combat personnel?

McNamara replied that the mission is to protect bases [illegible] there are Navy concentrations of aircraft, equipment and personnel, then added: "In addition, if the Vietnamese military commanders request the assistance of U.S. troops, U.S. combat troops, because the Vietnamese lack the necessary reserves to effectively counter Viet Cong attacks, Gen. (William C.) Westmoreland (top American commander) has authority to send our combat troops to the assistance and support of the Vietnamese. If he didn't have that authority, a situation could arise in which very heavy loss of life could occur and in which great advantage could be won by the Viet Cong forces."

The revised total of American military personnel in Viet Nam — Army, Marines, Air Force and Navy — does not include 27,000 aboard ships of the 7th Fleet standing off the mainland. About 21,000 of the new total will be combat ground personnel, McNamara said.

This compares with a present strength of about 54,000.

The difference is equivalent to something more than a full division, which averages about 17,000 men.

But McNamara has given no indication of intending to put one or more complete divisions into Viet Nam at this time.

The procedure so far is to utilize only elements — battalions or smaller — of Army and Marine divisions

Cape's Most Intensive Ground Search Ended

Futile Hunt Uncovers No Sign of Girl

By JOE BEAN

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The most intensive search in this city's history ended late Wednesday on the same note it began -- futility.

The three-day, inch-by-inch search of more than a one square mile residential area and one and a half miles of riverfront by more than 200 citizens for two-year-old Elizabeth Ann Gill produced no lead on the child's location.

Police dogs, boats, volunteers, aerial photographs, and a sea plane were used as Police Chief Irvin E. Beard kept his 34-man force working around the clock in an effort to find the little girl, who walked away from her home at 235 S. Lorimier Sunday at 4 p.m.

"We don't know any place else to search," the Chief told this reporter yesterday. Pointing to an aerial photograph of the neighborhood, he said "all this area -- from the river back almost three-fourths of a mile by a mile and a half long -- has been gone over intensively at least twice."

The youngest of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill, Betsy was wearing a green and white checked blouse, pink panties, and sandal - type moccasins when she was last seen. Betsy will be three in August, weighs about 22 pounds, and is three feet tall. She has light brown hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion.

The girl had been left Sunday in care of her 13-year-old sister, according to Chief Beard, while her mother was in Chicago attending the eighth-grade graduation of a son and her father was working in St. Louis. He is an electrician.

More than 150 Cape Girardeauans participated in a massive ground search Tuesday, after being briefed at 8 a.m. by Chief Beard. The volunteers were then split into teams of eight to ten persons each and assigned a specific area to cover. By 2 p.m., the last party had reported to the police station. Nothing had been found to indicate the girl's presence.

From the steep and rocky banks of the Mississippi River to the dense and marshy gulleys of Happy Hollow, local authorities, neighbors, and townspeople have searched every crevice, cistern, and sewer into which the infant could have fallen. Nothing has been found.

The Gill home is two blocks from the Mississippi River and the Morgan Oak street bridge, leading Chief Beard to suggest that Betsy fell into the river.

L. J. McClure, 331 S. Lorimier, told this reporter yesterday in an exclusive interview that children in the neighborhood played around the river bank. "One of the kids in the neighborhood told me," he said, "that they would stand on this rock and jump to that one (about seven feet below it and just inches above the river) where one of the other kids would catch them."

The child told him Betsy played this game too, he said.

The river bank has been checked every day by six boats, Chief Beard said. And although the ground search has ended, daily examinations of the bank will continue, he indicated.

Barges belonging to the Missouri Dry Docks Co., a barge construction firm immediately south of the place where Betsy could have fallen in -- and where the children played -- were moved in case the infant's body had been trapped beneath one of them. Nothing was found.

"There are indications she had been to the river before," the Chief explained. "The spot where the other children played -- directly under the Route 34 bridge -- is right next to a deep spot, and the water is swift."

To get to the riverfront, the child would have climbed down three embankments -- drops of 12, 10, and 15 feet before being close enough to jump to the flat rock next to the water.

Happy Hollow, a six-block square used as a city dump but presently being excavated and filled, was thoroughly examined, Beard said.

W. A. Turner, an employee of the Energy Coal Co., which has bins in Happy Hollow, said there are "holes in the eight-feet high fence which she could have crawled through." But he said he had been over the area himself "about a dozen times" and had seen nothing.

The area was also covered by search parties.

Phone calls from local citizens have been pouring into the police station, Chief Beard said.

POINTING TO THE AREA INTENSIVELY SEARCHED is Cape Girardeau Chief of Police, Irvin E. Beard. The last search was made up of seven teams, which were assigned a specific area using aerial photographic maps.

BETSY GILL played here on the bank of the river with her brothers and sisters. According to L. J. McClure, neighbor of the Gills, Betsy would jump from the rock (Top X) into the arms of a playmate standing on the rock below (Bottom X).

THIS IS THE HOME of Betsy Gill, who has been missing since Sunday afternoon. At the time she was noticed missing, the oldest person at the house was her 13-year-old sister. Her mother and father were in St. Louis.

Floodwaters Batter Metropolitan Denver Area

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Floodwaters roaring out of mountain cloudbursts raced down the South Platte River and across the Denver area today, ripping out bridges and causing millions of dollars of damage.

The crest struck Denver shortly before midnight, but another crest three hours later flattened out before it reached suburban Littleton on the southern edge of the metropolitan area.

The second crest was reported by the Colorado Highway Patrol to be about 15 feet high — roughly the size of the initial surge — when it reached Waterton, 16 miles above Denver.

Even as the second threat melted away, the first crest was moving out onto the prairie lands northeast of Denver.

Evacuation warnings were sounded ahead of the rising waters and most residents of low-lying areas got out well ahead of the wave.

A power failure blacked out much of downtown Denver shortly before midnight. Other sections of the city also were affected.

Many residents of the Globeville area in North Denver were directed to evacuate their homes shortly before midnight. The city's packing houses and stockyards are located in the vicinity, although apparently high above the water line.

Denver Fire Chief Cassio Frazzini was swept from a rowboat early today in the middle of the torrent while trying to reach some of the trapped persons. He was rescued later as he clung to a tree along the edge of the raging torrent.

A crest estimated by the Colorado Highway Patrol at 15 to 20 feet high swept down the usually shallow South Platte as it roared into Denver from the south.

On the way, it tore out highway bridges, covered up roads and lapped menacingly at railroad trestles.

Gov. John A. Love made a personal inspection of some of the flood area and called it appalling and unbelievable.

Power and telephone service was disrupted in the Denver suburbs.

Sheriff Roy Vogt of suburban Arapahoe County said thousands of residents of Littleton and Englewood, Denver suburbs, were evacuated and confirmed that hundreds of homes were flooded as the waters rolled into the populous area. Vogt reported 200 house trailers were lost in one park west of the river at Littleton.

Evacuations preceded the flood crest as it moved across Denver from south to north. Among the buildings cleared was Denver's Union Station.

4. The City Bond Issue

10-Year Old Sewage Plant Must Expand to Meet Needs

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

Designed in 1955 with the ability to process 1,200,000 gallons of sewage per day, the Sikeston sewage treatment plant now handles over 2,000,000 gallons of sewage daily.

According to plant supervisor Richard Lucy, the sewage treatment facilities are now operating constantly above capacity, and soon will have to be expanded to keep pace with rapidly rising sewage flows from Sikeston's growing industrial, commercial, and residential areas.

This necessary expansion has been provided for in the $1,200,000 board of public works plan for improving the city's water and sewer systems. Exactly half of the proposal or $600,000 will be used to increase the capacity of Sikeston's sewage disposal system.

The most critical sewage problem facing the city is, of course, the insufficient size of the system, and so $220,000 have been allotted for the purpose of doubling the capacity of the main sewage treatment plant.

Plans also call for the expansion of Sikeston's two sewage lift-stations, which are presently operating very close to capacity. These two lift-stations pump sewage from the eastern and western edges of the city, where they are located, to the main sewage treatment plant.

The prospect of industrial development has also prompted the board of public works to propose the immediate construction of two new trunk sewers -- one to the west city limits along Malone Avenue, and the other to the Canvas Products area near the airport. These two areas are considered likely locations for new industry, and, as such, are badly in need of a sanitary sewer system.

Some of the funds from this $1,200,000 proposal will be set aside for future construction of a trunk sewer running north and south along the Frisco railroad from Murray Lane to Hardy Street, and then along West Street north to Salcedo Road. This trunk sewer will be constructed whenever residential, commercial, or industrial needs make it necessary.

These important improvements in Sikeston's sewage disposal system should meet the demands of a growing community for several years to come. Moreover, they will have the effect of reducing poilution, increasing property values, and promoting better public health.

Down Two Migs Near Viet Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two Communist MIG17 fighters in flames today in a dogfight 50 miles south of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The clash occurred while the Phantoms were flying escort for other U.S. warplanes bombing targets about 20 miles north of Thanh Hoa.

The spokesman said four Communist jets appeared and turned toward the American planes as if they were going to attack. But apparently they were hit before they had a chance to open fire, he said.

One parachute was seen opening, but it was not known what happened to the Communist pilot. The other two MIGs escaped.

One plane was shot down by Cmdr. Louis C. Page of San Diego, Calif., who told newsmen in Saigon, "This was the first enemey aircraft I have shot down. Other than that, we were just doing a job."

The pilot of the second Phantom, Lt. (j.g.) E. D. Batson Jr. of Buffalo, N.Y., said: "I'm tickled to death."

The spokesman said the dogfight lasted only 29 seconds and that the Phantoms hit the enemy with air-to-air missiles.

It was presumed that the MIGs were North Vietnamese, although Navy planes have had one brush with Communist Chinese MIGs off Hainan Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Phantoms were flying at an altitude between 10,000 and 20,000 feet when they spotted the hostile aircraft.

Page was asked how they knew the MIGs were about to attack.

"If he's in your general area and headed toward you, you have to assume he's up to no good," the pilot replied.

The MIG17 is of Korean War vintage, armed with one 37mm cannon and two 23mm cannon. The Phantom, one of the fastest and most heavily armed fighters in the American arsenal, is equipped with heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles which home in on the exhaust trail of enemy jets.

The two pilots flew with their radio intercept officers to Saigon for a news conference. Page's officer was Lt. John C. Smith Jr. of Belleview, Ill., whose wife and children live in Powan, Calif. Batson's officer was Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Doremus of Montclair, N.J., whose wife and children live in Wilmington, Del.

Page, who served as spokesman for the group, declined to discuss the tactics used in shooting down the MIGs.

Page also declined to say whether the missiles used were Sidewinders or Sparrows. The Phantom carries both.

He said he assumed the MIGs were North Vietnamese. The four enemy planes were silver and bore the yellow and red insignia of North Viet Nam, he said.

U.S. airmen attacking North Viet Nam last reported spotting hostile planes June 1 while bombing an ammunition dump 45 miles southwest of Hanoi. Eight MIG fighters appeared but wheeled away when the American planes started to close in on them.

On April 4, Communist MIGs shot down two U.S. F105's on a bombing raid about 65 miles south of Hanoi. A pilot of an American F100 said he believed he hit one of the MIGs in that engagement and downed it.

On April 4, four MIG17s jumped four U.S. Navy F4B planes in the Gulf of Tonkin off Red China's Hainan Island, and U.S. officials said one MIG was reported downed.

All Plans Set For "Multi-Occupation"

Plans are set for Sikeston's "Multi - Occupation" adult training program to get underway June 28 for 400 trainees.

Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty said the program will provide basic education, guidance and vocational training to give persons not now employed preparation for jobs, remove them in some cases from welfare roles, and provide them the opportunity to make their own way.

Those to be trained are generally heads of families with an income of less than $1200 per year. Three hundred of the trainees will be adults and the other 100 will be high-school drop outs.

The students are selected and screened by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and then referred to the school for training. At the end of training or, whenever the student is employable, he will be referred to the Employment Security.

Students are to receive eight hours minimum training per day and will be granted subsistence payments to support themselves and families.

Taken from 20 Southeast Missouri counties, most of the enrollees are from Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard Pemiscot, New Madrid, Dunklin, and Butler counties.

If it is necessary, some may be trained the full 18 months to gain employment, Twitty said.

William Sikes, project director for the Board of Education, said the training program includes:

Basic Education--primarily of reading, writing and arithmetic, but also some attention given to government, communication, basic English and social sciences.

Guidance and Counseling--to develop attitudes leading toward good employee-employer relations and an understanding of the free enterprise system.

The trainees will be given exploratory experiences in vocations in order to determine their aptitude for further vocational training.

Sikes said that the areas of vocational instruction will probably be:

1. Automotive service--to include tune-up; used car reconditioning; body and fender; station attendants and tire changers.

2. Food Service--to include training for fry or short order cooks; waitresses, cooks helpers, dish washers, bakers or baker's helpers.

MORE AND LONGER HIGHWAY BOXCARS

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE GOVERNOR did not do the average motorist any service when they enacted into law, the lengthened trailer and truck bill. This law extends the length of a combination of tractor and two trailers to 65 feet. The hazards to the safety of life and limb to the occupants of an automobile on the highways of this State, have been multiplied many times over those at present, and your daily papers and news-casts give you the shocking truth of these collisions when trucks and automobiles come together. The occupants of the auto are either killed outright or are maimed for life, but the truck driver is unhurt. Texas motorists can look forward to an accelerated death and accident toll, when these behemoths are put in operation on the highways, and there will be many more of them, for this added length and capacity will make it very profitable for their operators.

It is rather ironical that the motorist using the Texas highways who is taxed at present all out of proportion for the use he gets from the highways, that he will be further subjected to the harassment of these trains of lengthened outfits. At one of the committee hearings when this bill was up for consideration, one proponent of this additional length stated "That two of these trailers were safer and more easily handled than one tractor and trailer." This is laying it on 'pretty thick!' and this Journal won't buy that argument. Ask any man who has ever trailed a boat or small luggage carrier behind his auto, and he will agree.

When Texas' present load limit of 72,000 pounds was enacted it was thought that the limit had been reached or exceeded, but even with this liberal limit, truckers will not stay within it. The monthly report of "THE TEXAS WEIGH,' official publication of the TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY shows 335 violations for over the 18,000 pound limit; 346 violations for over the 32,000 pound limit; 895 violations for over the gross limit of 72,000 pounds; and 427 for over size limits. In addition there were 495 violations for not having a Railroad Commission permit. Out of 28,637 equipment checks, violations amounting to 3,615 for the above and other causes were found. Some truckers register their vehicles under their capacity, and then over load that limit, and 330 violations were found in this category.

From the above official statistics it can be readily seen that the operators of these trucks do not take very seriously our present traffic laws, for out of the 28,637 equipment checks in February 12.60 per cent were found to have violated one or more of the regulations governing their operations upon our highways. With Texas' thousands of miles of highways, it has been estimated where one violator is apprehended, three get away, so Texas highways take a terrific beating with no compensation, and with utter disregard for the law.

Over the last decade three Presidents have advocated and sent to the Congress, messages for proper and equitable user-charges for the use of highways, airports, barge canals and rivers, and other public built facilities, but so far little has been done to equilize and make the users of these facilities bear their fair share of their cost and upkeep. At present there is before the Congress bills to do this, but with the myriads of other legislation, there seems to be little hope of any of it passing, and the average taxpayer will continue to pick up the check, as usual.

Texas at present is spending many millions of dollars each year for construction of maintenance of these highways, and it would appear prudent on the part of our officials and the Legislature to protect this enormous investment, and at least recover for part if not all of the damage that is daily being inflicted on the highways by these over-sized and over loaded trucks, through proper user charges. The License and Weights Division of the Department of Public Safety who are charged with the apprehension of these violators is doing a good job, but this division is woefully under staffed, and it is one of the State's divisions that more than pays its own way. Its size should at least be tripled, to promote respect for our highways laws, and to prevent damage to our highways.

An average of $12.6 million a day in health insurance benefits was paid to the American public by insurance companies in the first nine months of 1964, the Health Insurance Institute reports. This was an increase of $1.3 million a day over the comparable period of 1963. The 1964 payments were ahead of the previous year for all five types of health insurance -- hospital expense, surgical expense, regular medical expense, major medical expense, and loss-of-income insurance.

THREE JUNE 17TH'S

Americans were celebrating June 17 as the day when Yankees showed portentous staying power against British troops on Bunker Hill in 1775. Icelanders were celebrating the same day because on June 17, 1944, they took full freedom from Danish rule. But many people in Germany also were observing the day because of its importance to self-determination in their country.

It was on June 17, 1953, that East Germans rebelled unsuccessfully against Soviet domination (if any such uprisings can ever be called really unsuccessful, being chapters in long stories of freedom eventually won). The East Germans sought relief from intolerable working conditions imposed on them under communism. They also hoped for reunification of their nation.

After the rebellion was crushed Soviet authorities said it had been engineered by Western agents. The obvious absence of preparation, the spontaneous and too often disorderly East German manifestations, all tended to discredit the Soviet charges.

On June 17, 1964, Chancellor Erhard of West Germany said: "History teaches us that the elemental driving force of a people which moves it toward its unity and freedom is one of the mightiest forces that there are." And President Eugen Gerstenmaier observed that "the Day of German Unity (June 17) gains in significance the longer the division of Germany lasts."

Meanwhile those nations which are now allied with West Germany hope that German interest in national unity will remain tempered by its interest in freedom -- a hope buttressed these days by German interest in a united Europe and Atlantic World.

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

This July 1-3 marks the 101st anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, the turning point of the Civil War, the Catholic Digest observes.

In Glory Road, Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Bruce Catton has written: "One day they would make a park there, with neat lawns and smooth black roadways, and there would be marble statues and bronze plaques to tell the story in bloodless prose. Silent cannon would rest behind grassy embankments, their wheels bolted down to concrete foundations, their malevolence wholly gone, and here and there birds would nest in the muzzles. Visitors would stand by the clump of trees and look off to the west and see nothing but the rolling fields and the quiet groves and the great blue bank of the mountains."

GIVE HER CREDIT--

A young lady in San Francisco is trying to prove it is possible to live for a full month on a credit card without spending a cent of cash.

Her name is Ann Ayleen Foley. Her sponsor is a big bank which by sheer coincidence happens to issue the particular brand of credit card she is using.

Without taking anything away from Miss Foley, it is only stating a fact to say that even if she achieves her goal, she actually hasn't done such a much.

Many resourceful Americans are demonstrating that it is possible to go through life these days with practically no cash.

But they do, alas, need just a little cash now and then.

So all America is waiting to learn if Miss Foley can find a way to use her credit card on vending machines, parking meters, public pay phones and other public facilities where up to now a coin in the slot is worth a million credit cards in the hand.

The luck of the Irish to you, Miss Ann Ayleen Foley. We hope it's in the credit cards for you to come in a winner.

Think what it will mean to the rest of us!

Camera shutter speed settings, like human muscles, need steady activity to keep them in good working condition. Unfortunately, certain shutter settings aren't used often enough by some photographers and can slow down and become inaccurate. This is most often true of the settings at the extreme high speed end of the shutter dial, such as 1/500 and 1/1,000, and the very slow speeds such as one and 1/2 second. Camera owners can help prevent shutter sluggishness by working out these seldom - used but important settings between shooting sessions when their cameras are empty.

THE SEVENTH WELL

In the course of its exploration and development work, an American oil company drilled six wells at a desolate location in the Saudi Arabian desert. After more than three years of disappointment, the seventh well, drilled to a deeper level, came in, establishing the location of the vast Arabian oil fields. The investment of millions of dollars and years of time was rewarded. The world's available supply of oil was significantly increased, and most importantly, as the years have proven, the people of a backward country were given the opportunity to learn new skills and apply their talents to the development of their homeland.

In so many areas of the world, the material benefits of modern civilization are barely known to people whose way of life has remained virtually unchanged for hundreds of years. Investor-owned business and industry seek opportunity world-wide. It has the need, the know how and the capital to develop human and material resources in the restless and backward areas of the world. But political stability and the disposition to honor contracts entered into, on the part of host countries, is a prerequisite to foreign investments. The American oil industry, through such work as that accomplished in Saudi Arabia, has been an outstanding leader in promoting economic development, independent of government subsidy and domination, in the far corners of the earth.

12 FULL OUNCES - THAT'S A LOT

Sometimes it's a good idea for the fellow who writes the editorials to get away from the typewriter and do a little snooping on his own. So, we took a look in the kitchen pantry to see how our homemaker was faring in the great controversy over packaging and labeling. Was she being taken for a sucker, as some of our regulation-happy lawmakers in Washington seem to think? Does she need more protection? Is she confused? (We didn't say, that, dear, but Senator Hart did.)

But, back to the pantry. First, the staples: a 10-lb. sack of flour, a 5-lb. bag of sugar. Could we be sure? Well, it said so on the flour sack in 48-point type -- that's the size of some of the bigger headlines on the front page of this newspaper. The weight on the sugar bag was in somewhat smaller type - looked about like 36 point -- but still big enough to read clear across the room. Okay for sugar and flour. Even the little woman couldn't have been confused about these purchases.

The package of baking soda said it contained 1 lb. net -- plain as day. The peaches, pears and pineapple all duly reported the size of the can, the number of ounces net weight. Ditto for the tomato catsup, the chili sauce, the mustard, the hamburger relish -- all weights recorded in type sizes easily readable by the naked eye.

Paper napkins in a handy container -- 80 full count, it said. Just to be ornery we counted them and, by golly, there were 80 -- no more, no less. The roll of paper towels said 200, and we took their word for it. No room in the kitchen to count that many. Sure, the label did proclaim that this was the "big roll". How big is big? Well, research determined that the big roll with 200 towels is twice as big as the one with 100. We'll go along with that-- no confusion.

The detergent in a no-slip plastic ontainer was labeled "king size" but in bold type it said 1 qt. liquid. So, now we know what that means. And the tomato paste can was labeled "family size" so many ounces. Whose family? The average family of a mommy and daddy and two and one-half kids that Uncle Sam says is average?

If we can swallow that one about two and one-half kids, certainly we can't object to a manufacturer euphemistically telling the world that his tomato paste comes in family size.

In all our kitchen snooping only once did we come a cropper. The wife had bought a "pound cake," and do you know the label said 14 oz. Can you imagine that?

FLOWER FROG

If you need a "frog" in which to anchor flower stems for your table's centerpiece, half a lemon or orange rind is very handy. Squeeze out the juice first, of course, then punch holes in the rind with an ice pick, set it in the bowl flat side down, and stick the stems through the holes. The rind will hold the flowers securely and, when they finally get limp, you can throw the whole business away without the necessity of cleaning any metal gadgets.

DRESS TIPS: The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports that the term "hand tailored" does not mean that every stitch in a garment is hand-sewn. For practical reasons, all seams are machine-stitched. However, to carry a "Hand-Tailored" label, the coat must be made with at least 21 specified hand operations.

H. L. Hunt Says

GERRYMANDERING

Since the beginning of American politics, parties in power have sometimes used their legislative power to create for themselves an unfair advantage over opponents.

One party seeking to retain control over the state of Massachusetts revised the boundaries of its voting districts to its own advantage. In doing so, the party's legislators pushed through a redistricting bill that shaped voting districts so as to include enough of the party faithful in each district to eliminate any strongholds of the opposition.

This practice was not new, but this particular case was so blatant that it aroused widespread indignation. The districts were drawn up in rambling shapes that twisted and turned in many directions.

When one newspaper printed a map showing the new districts, their grotesque shapes caused many comments. One wag suggested that a particular district looked like a salamander. It was quickly dubbed a "Gerrymander," which was a play on the surname of Governor Elbridge Gerry, who actually had little to do with the legislature's corrupt scheme.

Nevertheless, Governor Gerry bore the brunt of the criticism, which led to his defeat for re-election in 1812. And from that time, the practice has been known as "gerrymandering."

With many states redistricting as a result of the Supreme Court's reapportionment orders, the "in" parties, particularly in one-party states, may be tempted to do a bit of gerrymandering.

The Texas Legislature, for instance, has split conservative Dallas voters up among four districts, two of which wind some 450 miles across the state, or more than twice the length of Massachusetts.

The forests' prime evil

Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- It was his first day of liberty in more than a month.

He had planned to spend it in town seeing the sights.

But it was 11 a.m. when Sgt. Daniel F. Hall, 22, of Pottstown, Pa., returned from a six-day patrol to the tent area of Able Company, 3rd Regiment, U.S. Marines.

By the time he had showered, shaved, put on his summer khakis, and hitched a ride, it was after 2 p.m. Since he had to start back by 7 o'clock, his day of liberty had dwindled to only five hours.

That was more than enough for the tall, hazel-eyed young sergeant, who is third in command of his rifle platoon.

"I thought it would do me good to get into town and have a change of scenery," said Hall, whose cheekbones have been burned cherry red by the dozen or more patrols he has been on since he came here March 10.

Sipping a cup of coffee at the USO building here, Hall told of his big day off from the war:

"I've spent most of it trying to find some milk or ice cream. No luck. When I get home the first thing I'm going to do is to go to a supermarket and buy a gallon of milk. That's what I miss.

"I walked around the streets looking for something to buy. I bought a tin trunk for $3. I wanted to get something nice as sourvenirs for my wife, Suzanne, and my children - Daniel F. Jr., - he's 4-and my daughter, Lisa Marie - she's 2 1/2. But I couldn't find anything worth sending. Just a lot of junk.

"I walked along the waterfront and saw the old ladies selling bread and straw mats and quarreling over fish the sampans had just brought in, and a bunch of kids followed me hollering, 'Hello, Kay."

"I was feeling kind of weird. I just wanted to get away from everybody, and maybe listen to a few records. I wasn't exactly homesick. Everybody wants to go home.

"Then I passed a hotel where another Marine and I had lunch together the last time I had liberty. That made me feel blue, because it wasn't long after that he was killed, one of only two guys our company has lost. He was a nice guy. I remember we talked about home," said Hall.

"You know, this is the first war I've been in, and it is kind of hard to classify. One of the enemy's village recruits can take a few potshots at you, then hide his gun, and you can't tell him from a rice farmer. We have to be awful careful about firing."

The sergeant looked at his watch. He still had an hour and a half liberty.

I asked the sergeant if he minded returning to the hills after so short a leave.

"Well, I'm not crazy about batting around those hot hills and being shot at," he replied slowly, "but that is the job we were sent over here to do.

"I think about life quite a lot when I'm sleeping out there on the ground under the stars. And it seems to me the trick in life is do do well whatever you set out to do. If you do, you're fat."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- During the height of the Dominican crisis, U. S. intelligence agencies were tapping wires all over the Caribbean, including the telephone of ex - president Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

Having been ousted by the military in 1963, Bosch was credited with masterminding the revolution to get back in power. American intelligence agencies, therefore, wanted to find out what he was planning and who was behind him.

They picked up some interesting phone messages, including one phone call from Santo Domingo reporting that one of the rebel leaders had been shot.

"See that he is shot in the back and then announce to the press that the Americans shot him," ordered Bosch.

Another intercept which U. S. intelligence agencies picked up was an instruction from the Panamanian government to its OAS ambassador in Washington advising him not to support the United States openly, yet not to do anything which might embarrass the United States.

DE GAULLE GETS RABID

The American embassy in Paris has warned the State Department that the United States might just as well reconcile itself to a NATO without the key country NATO was organized to protect--France.

The anti-American policy of President De Gaulle has become so bitter that cabled instructions were sent to French ambassadors in five Latin-American countries to work actively against American policy in the Dominican Republic at the time the United States intervened.

"While the ordinary Frenchman is not much concerned with foreign affairs," reports the American embassy, "they would undoubtedly be up in arms if they were aware of these instructions.

"De Gaulle has become almost violently anti-American to the point that this is almost a phobia," reports the embassy. "There's no chance whatever of any compromise."

There has not been a serious deterioration in general French attitudes towards America, U. S. diplomatic observers believe. "But if De Gaulle runs out the big guns this could happen. The constant flow of biased and distorted information results in the French public being gradually infected by anti-U. S. propaganda."

It's not believed that De Gaulle will pull France out of NATO before December 15. However, as De Gaulle warms to his election campaign, he will be harping more and more on the anti-American theme and will probably climax it by severing French relations with NATO after mid-December. All this after 180 years of close French-American friendship and after two world wars in which the United States landed troops in Europe to go to the aid of beleaguered France.

LBJ'S JUDGES

With the Negro voting rights bill about to become law, there's increasing interest as to whom the president will appoint to the vacancies on the fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

These are vacancies traditionally filled by Mississippi and Texas judges, and if the fifth Circuit doesn't stay liberal, all the legislation Congress can pass in a decade will not materially help racial imbalance which President Johnson is trying to correct.

Judicial procedures are such that a majority of segregation-minded judges on this court could stall the march of the Negro toward the goal set by Johnson.

This is the reason why old Southern friends of the President are putting on the heat to appoint another old friend, ex-governor Jim Coleman of Mississippi. This would change the present 4-3 liberal majority on the fifth Circuit to 4 to 4.

There is also a lot of skirmishing regarding the judicial vacancy for Texas. Here Sen. Ralph Yarborough has proposed Fagan Dickson, Austin attorney, or L. N. D. Wells, Jr., of Dallas, both excellent lawyers and excellent choices.

When the President failed to act on these, Sen. Yarborough wrote the White House that he would be delighted to see either one of three federal district judges promoted to the Circuit Court--Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas, who swore Lyndon in as president after the Kennedy assassination; Judge Homer Thornberry, an old friend of the President's, or Ben Connally, brother of the late Sen. Tom Connally and far more reactionary than his senatorial brother.

The President is reported leaning toward Judge Hughes, partly for sentimental reasons, partly because he wants to appoint more women to public office.

NOTE: When it comes to patronage, LBJ is inclined to treat Sen. Yarborough like a country cousin who already owes him money and is asking for more to spend on beer and women. In other states, senators have a lot of influence when it comes to recommending federal judges. But when it comes to Texas, Lyndon figures he knows best.

TEMPER OF THE TIMES

How concerned people are becoming over Viet Nam was indicated at a giant SANE rally in Madison Square Garden after which 2,500 of the audience staged a march, at 11:40 p.m., to the United Nations Plaza.

It was the administration's most vigorous critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D - Ore., who touched off the demonstration.

"We meet here a few blocks away from the citadel of international justice the United Nations," he said. "I now call upon my President to go before that tribunal and ask for a special assembly meeting and announce that he is ready to lay before it the threat to peace, that he is ready to substitute the rule of reason for the rule of jungle law in the jungles of Viet Nam."

Shortly after the Madison Square Garden rally ended, Morse and Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby specialist, led the march, two by two, to the UN Plaza where they were joined by another thousand people for another rally which continued until 1 a.m.

Inside Labor

SIGNS OF THINGS TO COME?

Secretary of Labor Urges Year's Paid Sabbatical For All U.S. Workers

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It has not been publicly reported, but Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz did tell some union people the other day that every worker in every industry should have a paid sabbatical similar to that enjoyed by teachers.

This would give each employe a full year off with pay, somewhere along the line.

Then Mr. Wirtz's built-in prudence caught up with his eloquence. "My sabbatical idea is full of bugs," said he with caution. "So it may not work."

But, he added, the time had come to have the idea discussed so middle-aged and older folks could enjoy leisure time or return to schools and universities.

Frequently it is difficult to discern where Mr. Wirtz's whimsy merges with realism. But there is no doubt that his listeners and important labor policy-makers do not believe that a sabbatical is improbable or that the thought is full of bugs.

It is, in fact, one of labor's goals, though much less is said of it than of the campaign for a 35-hour week. It makes no dramatic headlines because it takes the form of longer and longer vacations. This now is the most significant common cause shared by thousands of local unions.

There is, for example, a dynamo on wheels known as Harry Van Arsdale Jr., the leader of New York's electrical construction workers, who startled the nation four years ago with a successful drive for a five-hour day. That made the national headlines.

When he and his union's high command signed their new contract recently, there was scarcely a note though he made a second breakthrough, this time in the field of vacations.

This is doubly significant because vacations are rare in the building and construction field. The men work as long as they can because of winter layoffs. Yet Van Arsdale won a three-week annual vacation for those of his people who have been in the industry for 20 years.

Unprecedentedly the men get credit for time they put in at shipyards during the big war, or at defense installations, and in the armed services. They also receive seniority credit for the time worked in any part of the country in the employ of any electrical contractor.

For the moment the dramatic impact won't be felt. But this is the beginning. Now Van Arsdale plans to cut down the length of time a man will have to spend in the electrical construction field in order to qualify for a vacation from the firm which employs him.

At the same time the vacation time will grow longer and longer — and this is in a field where vacations have been virtually non-existent. Remember Van Arsdale is the man who put the New York City electrical contracting industry on a 25-hour week.

In other fields, one-month to three-month vacations are the norm. One union in the maritime field has won a six-months' holiday for its members. Labor technicians everywhere are working on vacation patterns which in a decade will be sabbaticals, not quite the length of the teachers' but certainly beginning to edge in on them.

This definitely will not mean that the Van Arsdales or the George Meanys will give their shorter-work-week drive a holiday. Indeed, there is nothing sacred even about the 35-hour week.

The same day Wirtz spoke of sabbaticals for all, Meany said:

"We must immediately go to a 35 - hour week. And in a few years from now the 35-hour week will not be short enough."

And already there are rumblings from influential labor circles seeking a four-day week of 32 hours and less.

Though statements and actions in these directions were noticeable to the insider during this past week, they were not mere spring fever symptoms.

Though unobserved, they are the crackling drives inside labor.

MORE AND LONGER HIGHWAY BOXCARS

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE GOVERNOR did not do the average motorist any service when they enacted into law, the lengthened trailer and truck bill. This law extends the length of a combination of tractor and two trailers to 65 feet. The hazards to the safety of life and limb to the occupants of an automobile on the highways of this State, have been multiplied many times over those at present, and your daily papers and news-casts give you the shocking truth of these collisions when trucks and automobiles come together. The occupants of the auto are either killed outright or are maimed for life, but the truck driver is unhurt. Texas motorists can look forward to an accelerated death and accident toll, when these behemoths are put in operation on the highways, and there will be many more of them, for this added length and capacity will make it very profitable for their operators.

It is rather ironical that the motorist using the Texas highways who is taxed at present all out of proportion for the use he gets from the highways, that he will be further subjected to the harassment of these trains of lengthened outfits. At one of the committee hearings when this bill was up for consideration, one proponent of this additional length stated "That two of these trailers were safer and more easily handled than one tractor and trailer." This is laying it on 'pretty thick!' and this Journal won't buy that argument. Ask any man who has ever trailed a boat or small luggage carrier behind his auto, and he will agree.

When Texas' present load limit of 72,000 pounds was enacted it was thought that the limit had been reached or exceeded, but even with this liberal limit, truckers will not stay within it. The monthly report of "THE TEXAS WEIGH,' official publication of the TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY shows 335 violations for over the 18,000 pound limit; 346 violations for over the 32,000 pound limit; 895 violations for over the gross limit of 72,000 pounds; and 427 for over size limits. In addition there were 495 violations for not having a Railroad Commission permit. Out of 28,637 equipment checks, violations amounting to 3,615 for the above and other causes were found. Some truckers register their vehicles under their capacity, and then over load that limit, and 330 violations were found in this category.

From the above official statistics it can be readily seen that the operators of these trucks do not take very seriously our present traffic laws, for out of the 28,637 equipment checks in February 12.60 per cent were found to have violated one or more of the regulations governing their operations upon our highways. With Texas' thousands of miles of highways, it has been estimated where one violator is apprehended, three get away, so Texas highways take a terrific beating with no compensation, and with utter disregard for the law.

Over the last decade three Presidents have advocated and sent to the Congress, messages for proper and equitable user-charges for the use of highways, airports, barge canals and rivers, and other public built facilities, but so far little has been done to equilize and make the users of these facilities bear their fair share of their cost and upkeep. At present there is before the Congress bills to do this, but with the myriads of other legislation, there seems to be little hope of any of it passing, and the average taxpayer will continue to pick up the check, as usual.

Texas at present is spending many millions of dollars each year for construction of maintenance of these highways, and it would appear prudent on the part of our officials and the Legislature to protect this enormous investment, and at least recover for part if not all of the damage that is daily being inflicted on the highways by these over-sized and over loaded trucks, through proper user charges. The License and Weights Division of the Department of Public Safety who are charged with the apprehension of these violators is doing a good job, but this division is woefully under staffed, and it is one of the State's divisions that more than pays its own way. Its size should at least be tripled, to promote respect for our highways laws, and to prevent damage to our highways.

An average of $12.6 million a day in health insurance benefits was paid to the American public by insurance companies in the first nine months of 1964, the Health Insurance Institute reports. This was an increase of $1.3 million a day over the comparable period of 1963. The 1964 payments were ahead of the previous year for all five types of health insurance -- hospital expense, surgical expense, regular medical expense, major medical expense, and loss-of-income insurance.

THREE JUNE 17TH'S

Americans were celebrating June 17 as the day when Yankees showed portentous staying power against British troops on Bunker Hill in 1775. Icelanders were celebrating the same day because on June 17, 1944, they took full freedom from Danish rule. But many people in Germany also were observing the day because of its importance to self-determination in their country.

It was on June 17, 1953, that East Germans rebelled unsuccessfully against Soviet domination (if any such uprisings can ever be called really unsuccessful, being chapters in long stories of freedom eventually won). The East Germans sought relief from intolerable working conditions imposed on them under communism. They also hoped for reunification of their nation.

After the rebellion was crushed Soviet authorities said it had been engineered by Western agents. The obvious absence of preparation, the spontaneous and too often disorderly East German manifestations, all tended to discredit the Soviet charges.

On June 17, 1964, Chancellor Erhard of West Germany said: "History teaches us that the elemental driving force of a people which moves it toward its unity and freedom is one of the mightiest forces that there are." And President Eugen Gerstenmaier observed that "the Day of German Unity (June 17) gains in significance the longer the division of Germany lasts."

Meanwhile those nations which are now allied with West Germany hope that German interest in national unity will remain tempered by its interest in freedom -- a hope buttressed these days by German interest in a united Europe and Atlantic World.

Camera shutter speed settings, like human muscles, need steady activity to keep them in good working condition. Unfortunately, certain shutter settings aren't used often enough by some photographers and can slow down and become inaccurate. This is most often true of the settings at the extreme high speed end of the shutter dial, such as 1/500 and 1/1,000, and the very slow speeds such as one and 1/2 second. Camera owners can help prevent shutter sluggishness by working out these seldom - used but important settings between shooting sessions when their cameras are empty.

THE SEVENTH WELL

In the course of its exploration and development work, an American oil company drilled six wells at a desolate location in the Saudi Arabian desert. After more than three years of disappointment, the seventh well, drilled to a deeper level, came in, establishing the location of the vast Arabian oil fields. The investment of millions of dollars and years of time was rewarded. The world's available supply of oil was significantly increased, and most importantly, as the years have proven, the people of a backward country were given the opportunity to learn new skills and apply their talents to the development of their homeland.

In so many areas of the world, the material benefits of modern civilization are barely known to people whose way of life has remained virtually unchanged for hundreds of years. Investor-owned business and industry seek opportunity world-wide. It has the need, the know how and the capital to develop human and material resources in the restless and backward areas of the world. But political stability and the disposition to honor contracts entered into, on the part of host countries, is a prerequisite to foreign investments. The American oil industry, through such work as that accomplished in Saudi Arabia, has been an outstanding leader in promoting economic development, independent of government subsidy and domination, in the far corners of the earth.

12 FULL OUNCES - THAT'S A LOT

Sometimes it's a good idea for the fellow who writes the editorials to get away from the typewriter and do a little snooping on his own. So, we took a look in the kitchen pantry to see how our homemaker was faring in the great controversy over packaging and labeling. Was she being taken for a sucker, as some of our regulation-happy lawmakers in Washington seem to think? Does she need more protection? Is she confused? (We didn't say, that, dear, but Senator Hart did.)

But, back to the pantry. First, the staples: a 10-lb. sack of flour, a 5-lb. bag of sugar. Could we be sure? Well, it said so on the flour sack in 48-point type -- that's the size of some of the bigger headlines on the front page of this newspaper. The weight on the sugar bag was in somewhat smaller type - looked about like 36 point -- but still big enough to read clear across the room. Okay for sugar and flour. Even the little woman couldn't have been confused about these purchases.

The package of baking soda said it contained 1 lb. net -- plain as day. The peaches, pears and pineapple all duly reported the size of the can, the number of ounces net weight. Ditto for the tomato catsup, the chili sauce, the mustard, the hamburger relish -- all weights recorded in type sizes easily readable by the naked eye.

Paper napkins in a handy container -- 80 full count, it said. Just to be ornery we counted them and, by golly, there were 80 -- no more, no less. The roll of paper towels said 200, and we took their word for it. No room in the kitchen to count that many. Sure, the label did proclaim that this was the "big roll". How big is big? Well, research determined that the big roll with 200 towels is twice as big as the one with 100. We'll go along with that-- no confusion.

The detergent in a no-slip plastic ontainer was labeled "king size" but in bold type it said 1 qt. liquid. So, now we know what that means. And the tomato paste can was labeled "family size" so many ounces. Whose family? The average family of a mommy and daddy and two and one-half kids that Uncle Sam says is average?

If we can swallow that one about two and one-half kids, certainly we can't object to a manufacturer euphemistically telling the world that his tomato paste comes in family size.

In all our kitchen snooping only once did we come a cropper. The wife had bought a "pound cake," and do you know the label said 14 oz. Can you imagine that?

FLOWER FROG

If you need a "frog" in which to anchor flower stems for your table's centerpiece, half a lemon or orange rind is very handy. Squeeze out the juice first, of course, then punch holes in the rind with an ice pick, set it in the bowl flat side down, and stick the stems through the holes. The rind will hold the flowers securely and, when they finally get limp, you can throw the whole business away without the necessity of cleaning any metal gadgets.

DRESS TIPS: The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports that the term "hand tailored" does not mean that every stitch in a garment is hand-sewn. For practical reasons, all seams are machine-stitched. However, to carry a "Hand-Tailored" label, the coat must be made with at least 21 specified hand operations.

H. L. Hunt Says

GERRYMANDERING

Since the beginning of American politics, parties in power have sometimes used their legislative power to create for themselves an unfair advantage over opponents.

One party seeking to retain control over the state of Massachusetts revised the boundaries of its voting districts to its own advantage. In doing so, the party's legislators pushed through a redistricting bill that shaped voting districts so as to include enough of the party faithful in each district to eliminate any strongholds of the opposition.

This practice was not new, but this particular case was so blatant that it aroused widespread indignation. The districts were drawn up in rambling shapes that twisted and turned in many directions.

When one newspaper printed a map showing the new districts, their grotesque shapes caused many comments. One wag suggested that a particular district looked like a salamander. It was quickly dubbed a "Gerrymander," which was a play on the surname of Governor Elbridge Gerry, who actually had little to do with the legislature's corrupt scheme.

Nevertheless, Governor Gerry bore the brunt of the criticism, which led to his defeat for re-election in 1812. And from that time, the practice has been known as "gerrymandering."

With many states redistricting as a result of the Supreme Court's reapportionment orders, the "in" parties, particularly in one-party states, may be tempted to do a bit of gerrymandering.

The Texas Legislature, for instance, has split conservative Dallas voters up among four districts, two of which wind, some 450 miles across the state, or more than twice the length of Massachusetts.

The forests' prime evil

Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- It was his first day of liberty in more than a month.

He had planned to spend it in town seeing the sights.

But it was 11 a.m. when Sgt. Daniel F. Hall, 22, of Pottstown, Pa., returned from a six-day patrol to the tent area of Able Company, 3rd Regiment, U.S. Marines.

By the time he had showered, shaved, put on his summer khakis, and hitched a ride, it was after 2 p.m. Since he had to start back by 7 o'clock, his day of liberty had dwindled to only five hours.

That was more than enough for the tall, hazel-eyed young sergeant, who is third in command of his rifle platoon.

"I thought it would do me good to get into town and have a change of scenery," said Hall, whose cheekbones have been burned cherry red by the dozen or more patrols he has been on since he came here March 10.

Sipping a cup of coffee at the USO building here, Hall told of his big day off from the war:

"I've spent most of it trying to find some milk or ice cream. No luck. When I get home the first thing I'm going to do is to go to a supermarket and buy a gallon of milk. That's what I miss.

"I walked around the streets looking for something to buy. I bought a tin trunk for $3. I wanted to get something nice as sourvenirs for my wife, Suzanne, and my children - Daniel F. Jr., - he's 4-and my daughter, Lisa Marie - she's 2 1/2. But I couldn't find anything worth sending. Just a lot of junk.

"I walked along the waterfront and saw the old ladies selling bread and straw mats and quarreling over fish the sampans had just brought in, and a bunch of kids followed me hollering, 'Hello, Kay."

"I was feeling kind of weird. I just wanted to get away from everybody, and maybe listen to a few records. I wasn't exactly homesick. Everybody wants to go home.

"Then I passed a hotel where another Marine and I had lunch together the last time I had liberty. That made me feel blue, because it wasn't long after that he was killed, one of only two guys our company has lost. He was a nice guy. I remember we talked about home," said Hall.

"You know, this is the first war I've been in, and it is kind of hard to classify. One of the enemy's village recruits can take a few potshots at you, then hide his gun, and you can't tell him from a rice farmer. We have to be awful careful about firing."

The sergeant looked at his watch. He still had an hour and a half liberty.

I asked the sergeant if he minded returning to the hills after so short a leave.

"Well, I'm not crazy about batting around those hot hills and being shot at," he replied slowly, "but that is the job we were sent over here to do.

"I think about life quite a lot when I'm sleeping out there on the ground under the stars. And it seems to me the trick in life is do do well whatever you set out to do. If you do, you're fat."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- During the height of the Dominican crisis, U. S. intelligence agencies were tapping wires all over the Caribbean, including the telephone of ex - president Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

Having been ousted by the military in 1963, Bosch was credited with masterminding the revolution to get back in power. American intelligence agencies, therefore, wanted to find out what he was planning and who was behind him.

They picked up some interesting phone messages, including one phone call from Santo Domingo reporting that one of the rebel leaders had been shot.

"See that he is shot in the back and then announce to the press that the Americans shot him," ordered Bosch.

Another intercept which U. S. intelligence agencies picked up was an instruction from the Panamanian government to its OAS ambassador in Washington advising him not to support the United States openly, yet not to do anything which might embarrass the United States.

DE GAULLE GETS RABID

The American embassy in Paris has warned the State Department that the United States might just as well reconcile itself to a NATO without the key country NATO was organized to protect--France.

The anti-American policy of President De Gaulle has become so bitter that cabled instructions were sent to French ambassadors in five Latin-American countries to work actively against American policy in the Dominican Republic at the time the United States intervened.

"While the ordinary Frenchman is not much concerned with foreign affairs," reports the American embassy, "they would undoubtedly be up in arms if they were aware of these instructions.

"De Gaulle has become almost violently anti-American to the point that this is almost a phobia," reports the embassy. "There's no chance whatever of any compromise."

There has not been a serious deterioration in general French attitudes towards America, U. S. diplomatic observers believe. "But if De Gaulle runs out the big guns this could happen. The constant flow of biased and distorted information results in the French public being gradually infected by anti-U. S. propaganda."

It's not believed that De Gaulle will pull France out of NATO before December 15. However, as De Gaulle warms to his election campaign, he will be harping more and more on the anti-American theme and will probably climax it by severing French relations with NATO after mid-December. All this after 180 years of close French-American friendship and after two world wars in which the United States landed troops in Europe to go to the aid of beleaguered France.

LBJ'S JUDGES

With the Negro voting rights bill about to become law, there's increasing interest as to whom the president will appoint to the vacancies on the fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

These are vacancies traditionally filled by Mississippi and Texas judges, and if the fifth Circuit doesn't stay liberal, all the legislation Congress can pass in a decade will not materially help racial imbalance which President Johnson is trying to correct.

Judicial procedures are such that a majority of segregation-minded judges on this court could stall the march of the Negro toward the goal set by Johnson.

This is the reason why old Southern friends of the President are putting on the heat to appoint another old friend, ex-governor Jim Coleman of Mississippi. This would change the present 4-3 liberal majority on the fifth Circuit to 4 to 4.

There is also a lot of skirmishing regarding the judicial vacancy for Texas. Here Sen. Ralph Yarborough has proposed Fagan Dickson, Austin attorney, or L. N. D. Wells, Jr., of Dallas, both excellent lawyers and excellent choices.

When the President failed to act on these, Sen. Yarborough wrote the White House that he would be delighted to see either one of three federal district judges promoted to the Circuit Court--Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas, who swore Lyndon in as president after the Kennedy assassination; Judge Homer Thornberry, an old friend of the President's, or Ben Connally, brother of the late Sen. Tom Connally and far more reactionary than his senatorial brother.

The President is reported leaning toward Judge Hughes, partly for sentimental reasons, partly because he wants to appoint more women to public office.

NOTE: When it comes to patronage, LBJ is inclined to treat Sen. Yarborough like a country cousin who already owes him money and is asking for more to spend on beer and women. In other states, senators have a lot of influence when it comes to recommending federal judges. But when it comes to Texas, Lyndon figures he knows best.

TEMPER OF THE TIMES

How concerned people are becoming over Viet Nam was indicated at a giant SANE rally in Madison Square Garden after which 2,500 of the audience staged a march, at 11:40 p.m., to the United Nations Plaza.

It was the administration's most vigorous critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D - Ore., who touched off the demonstration.

"We meet here a few blocks away from the citadel of international justice the United Nations," he said. "I now call upon my President to go before that tribunal and ask for a special assembly meeting and announce that he is ready to lay before it the threat to peace, that he is ready to substitute the rule of reason for the rule of jungle law in the jungles of Viet Nam."

Shortly after the Madison Square Garden rally ended, Morse and Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby specialist, led the march, two by two, to the UN Plaza where they were joined by another thousand people for another rally which continued until 1 a.m.

Inside Labor

SIGNS OF THINGS TO COME?

Secretary of Labor Urges Year's Paid Sabbatical For All U.S. Workers

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It has not been publicly reported, but Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz did tell some union people the other day that every worker in every industry should have a paid sabbatical similar to that enjoyed by teachers.

This would give each employe a full year off with pay, somewhere along the line.

Then Mr. Wirtz's built-in prudence caught up with his eloquence. "My sabbatical idea is full of bugs," said he with caution. "So it may not work."

But, he added, the time had come to have the idea discussed so middle-aged and older folks could enjoy leisure time or return to schools and universities.

Frequently it is difficult to discern where Mr. Wirtz's whimsy merges with realism. But there is no doubt that his listeners and important labor policy-makers do not believe that a sabbatical is improbable or that the thought is full of bugs.

It is, in fact, one of labor's goals, though much less is said of it than of the campaign for a 35-hour week. It makes no dramatic headlines because it takes the form of longer and longer vacations. This now is the most significant common cause shared by thousands of local unions.

There is, for example, a dynamo on wheels known as Harry Van Arsdale Jr., the leader of New York's electrical construction workers, who startled the nation four years ago with a successful drive for a five-hour day. That made the national headlines.

When he and his union's high command signed their new contract recently, there was scarcely a note though he made a second breakthrough, this time in the field of vacations.

This is doubly significant because vacations are rare in the building and construction field. The men work as long as they can because of winter layoffs. Yet Van Arsdale won a three-week annual vacation for those of his people who have been in the industry for 20 years.

Unprecedentedly the men get credit for time they put in at shipyards during the big war, or at defense installations, and in the armed services. They also receive seniority credit for the time worked in any part of the country in the employ of any electrical contractor.

For the moment the dramatic impact won't be felt. But this is the beginning. Now Van Arsdale plans to cut down the length of time a man will have to spend in the electrical construction field in order to qualify for a vacation from the firm which employs him.

At the same time the vacation time will grow longer and longer — and this is in a field where vacations have been virtually non-existent. Remember Van Arsdale is the man who put the New York City electrical contracting industry on a 25-hour week.

In other fields, one-month to three-month vacations are the norm. One union in the maritime field has won a six-months' holiday for its members. Labor technicians everywhere are working on vacation patterns which in a decade will be sabbaticals, not quite the length of the teachers' but certainly beginning to edge in on them.

This definitely will not mean that the Van Arsdales or the George Meanys will give their shorter-work-week drive a holiday. Indeed, there is nothing sacred even about the 35-hour week.

The same day Wirtz spoke of sabbaticals for all, Meany said:

"We must immediately go to a 35 - hour week. And in a few years from now the 35-hour week will not be short enough."

And already there are rumblings from influential labor circles seeking a four-day week of 32 hours and less.

Though statements and actions in these directions were noticeable to the insider during this past week, they were not mere spring fever symptoms.

Though unobserved, they are the crackling drives inside labor.

Bucs Drop Cards In Ninth 10 to 9 On Stargell's Homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two errors set the stage for Willie Stargell's three-run, ninth-inning homer Wednesday night and a 10-9 victory for Pittsburgh over the Cardinals in St. Louis. The loss was the 11th for St. Louis against only four victories in its current home stand.

Los Angeles swept a twi-night doubleheader from the A's in Kansas City, 7-1 and 5-4. George Brunet's five-hitter kept the A's at bay in the first game and Joe Adcock's sixth-inning solo homer provided the winning margin in the second contest.

Pittsburgh had to come from behind twice to defeat the Cards. The Pirates used 23 players, every man on the roster except for pitchers Bob Veale and Don Cardwell, in their fight to overtake the Cards.

Stargill led the Pirate attack with three hits in five times at bat.

Donn Clendenon hit a two-run homer in the eighth to give the Pirates a temporary 7-7 tie with the Cardinals.

Don Schwall, the seventh Pittsburgh pitcher of the night, received credit for the victory with one and one-third innings of relief. Barney Schultz was the loser in relief.

Kansas City's only run in the first game Wednesday came on a sacrifice fly in the seventh. The Angels, meanwhile, had accumulated three in the second inning, two in the fourth and two in the fifth. Adcock drove in two of the runs on two doubles. Fred Talbot started for the A's and took the defeat.

Kansas City took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the night-cap, but Bobby Knoop's run-scoring single in the third and Willie Smith's two-run, fourth inning homer put Los Angeles back in control. Jim Fregosi singled in another run for the Angels in the fifth.

Consecutive singles by Ken Harrelson, Ed Charles and Bill Bryan gave the A's their third run in the fifth and Rene Lachemann's single scored the final Kansas City run in the eighth.

Roland Sheldon lost it and Bob Lee was the winner in relief.

Kansas City is idle today while the Cardinals close out their home stand tonight against the Pirates. Bob Gibson will start for St. Louis and Vernon Law for Pittsburgh.

Lopez To Lead All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was named today to manage the American League All-Stars against the National League All-Stars at Minneapolis-St. Paul on July 13.

American League President Joe Cronin said Lopez was selected because Yogi Berra, who managed New York to the league pennant last year and who would have automatically been the All-Star manager, is no longer in the league.

Lopez, patriarch of league managers with 14 years of managerial experience, guided the White Sox to a second-place finish last year.

This will be the fourth All-Star Game for Lopez as manager. His teams lost three previous encounters with their National League counterparts.

"I feel that Lopez earned the honor through his outstanding performance with the White Sox last season, as well as in recognition of his distinguished career as an American League manger," Cronin said in making the selection.

This marks the second year in a row that Lopez has been the All-Star manager through succession. Last year, he moved into the post because Ralph Houk, who had managed New York to the pennant in 1963, vacated the manager's desk for the role of general manager of the Yankees.

American League players will vote on the eight starting players, exclusive of pitchers. Lopez will name all the pitchers, as well as batting-practice pitchers and catchers, coaches and trainers.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

Distribution of permits for a special nine-day teal season, scheduled to open September 18, will begin about June 25.

The Conservation Commission has been notified by the United States Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife that the permits will be shipped to arrive on or before that date.

Permits can be obtained free by writing to the Conservation Commission either at the central offices in Jefferson City or the metropolitan offices in St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Bureau said the permits will be in the form of a double postcard, with one section for the hunter and the other for records. Hunters will be required to furnish information for the form when they apply for permits, and are asked to be particularly careful to include their county of residence and state hunting permit number.

The special season, which will precede the regular duck season this year, will give hunters a chance to harvest the blue-wing teal, which migrate earlier than most other species. It will also provide the Bureau with some needed information on teal as well as on those who hunt them.

The Bureau had established a cut-off on permit distribution 30 days before the special season opens. With Missouri's season opening September 18, permits will not be distributed after August 18.

Palmer Worried More About His Caddy Than Nicklaus

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Arnold Palmer appeared to be more concerned about his caddy's welfare than he was about Jack Nicklaus today when he set out in quest of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

The Open is one of the four major tourneys that support Palmer's throne as this country's premier golfer, a position that is shaky and insecure in the face of the challenge by the bull-strong 25-year-old from Columbus, Ohio.

Palmer, however, mentioned Nicklaus not at all and his caddy several times after his final preparations over the vast, rolling acres of the Bellerive Country Club course, at 7,191 yards the longest ever for an Open.

"I hope he makes it," Palmer grinned. "He's a kind of skinny kid." The caddy is Jack Wallace, a lanky, 15-year-old who is greatly impressed with his good fortune.

Palmer's first act after sizing up his caddy was to strip his bag. He discarded a No. 4 wood and at least three irons then had the boy heft it.

"How's that?" he asked. "Too heavy? Lemme see what else I've got in there."

But underlying his casual banter is the certain — though unspoken — knowledge that he desperately needs to win this 65th Open; that he needs not only to finish higher than tourney favorite Nicklaus but win the whole shootng match.

The last year and a half has been a continuing frustration for the powerful, Ligonier, Pa., master — he has won only once in a year — but he mentions it only obliquely.

"My game is not as good as it has been," he said, "but it's better than it has been recently. It still needs a lot of work.

"But," almost defensively, "it's not that bad, hasn't been for about a year. I'm just finishing second instead of first, that's all. Second four times in a row."

One of the seconds was a tie with Gary Player, nine strokes back of Nicklaus' record-shattering 271 victory in the Masters, a triumph so overwhelming that many feel it vaulted the bulky blond to the No. 1 position held by Palmer for many years.

The victory also triggered his drive toward a professional grand slam — winning the Masters, Open, British Open and PGA in a single year. It's never been accomplished.

"I need to win one real bad," Palmer admitted.

Five Football Cards Sign Contracts

ST. LOUIS, June 18 -- Center Bob DeMarco and the four men who flank him -- tackles Bob Reynolds and Ernie McMillan and guards Irv Goode and Ken Gray -- have signed their 1965 contracts with the Football Cardinals, it was announced today.

The big quintet has become a solid unit for the Cardinals, and is expected to be one of the outstanding offensive lines in the National Football League.

Averages for the five men bring out some of the reasons for excellence. The group averages 6-4 in height and 253 pounds in weight, is just over 26 years of age and has four years of NFL experience. This blend of youth and experience is expected to be a key factor in the Big Red's performance in 1965.

Gray, all-pro guard and offensive captain, is the veteran of the unit. The Texan from Howard Payne College will be starting his eighth NFL season at the age of 29. He is the shortest of the group at 6-2, but is well regarded around the league as an outstanding blocker, both for passes and the running game, and as a leader of the Cardinal offense. He was third in league-wide voting for the "outstanding blocker" award.

Goode, the other guard and also a Pro Bowl selection last season, is the baby of the group at 24, though he will be starting his fourth season. A first-round draft choice from the University of Kentucky, Goode has played tackle, guard and center for the Cardinals and has been outstanding at all positions. He is 6-5 and weighs 250.

DeMarco, rapidly gaining recognition as one of the top centers in the league, is 6-3, weighs 240 and will be in his fifth NFL season at the age of 26. A graduate of the University of Dayton who came to the Cardinals as a guard candidate, the New Jersey native switched to center in 1962 and has been a standout there ever since.

Tallest man on the squad at 6-6, right tackle McMillan weighs 260, is 27 and will be in his fifth season with the Cardinals. A graduate of the University of Illinois, McMillan had an outstanding year in 1964. His pass blocking is excellent, and he has the agility and speed to lead running plays to the outside.

Reynolds, hampered by injury late in the season, is fully recovered and ready to bid for his starting left tackle berth again. A graduate of Bowling Green University, he is 6-5, weighs 265 and is in his third campaign. Very strong, he is becoming a top-flight blocker.

Goode, McMillan and Reynolds are among the 19 Cardinals now living all year round in St. Louis. DeMarco makes his home in Dayton and Gray lives in Llano, Texas.

Cousin's Lead In Base Stealing

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The American League base stealing race has turned into a family affair.

Bert Campaneris of the Kansas City Athletics swiped his 21st base of the year Wednesday night to break a deadlock for the A. L. lead with his second cousin, Los Angeles outfielder Jose Cardenal.

When the Angels moved into Kansas City for a three-game series Tuesday, Cardenal had stolen 20 bases and held what appeared to be a safe two-base advantage. But cousin Bert turned on the speed Tuesday night and pilfered second in both the first and second innings.

Cardenal attempted larceny only once, but was cut down by a perfect peg from catcher Rene Lachemann to Kansas City shortstop Campaneris.

In a doubleheader Wednesday night, Campy stole his 21st base of the year in the second game. Cardenal went 2-for-7 in the twin-bill, but never had a chance to increase his stolen bases total.

Both Campaneris and Cardenal are from Mantanzas, Cuba. Cardenal recalls when he and Campaneris were young "we run around a lot."

Both of them still do, to the dismay of rival pitchers and catchers.

Bucs Drop Cards In Ninth 10 to 9 On Stargell's Homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two errors set the stage for Willie Stargell's three-run, ninth-inning homer Wednesday night and a 10-9 victory for Pittsburgh over the Cardinals in St. Louis. The loss was the 11th for St. Louis against only four victories in its current home stand.

Los Angeles swept a twi-night doubleheader from the A's in Kansas City, 7-1 and 5-4. George Brunet's five-hitter kept the A's at bay in the first game and Joe Adcock's sixth-inning solo homer provided the winning margin in the second contest.

Pittsburgh had to come from behind twice to defeat the Cards. The Pirates used 23 players, every man on the roster except for pitchers Bob Veale and Don Cardwell, in their fight to overtake the Cards.

Stargill led the Pirate attack with three hits in five times at bat.

Donn Clendenon hit a two-run homer in the eighth to give the Pirates a temporary 7-7 tie with the Cardinals.

Don Schwall, the seventh Pittsburgh pitcher of the night, received credit for the victory with one and one-third innings of relief. Barney Schultz was the loser in relief.

Kansas City's only run in the first game Wednesday came on a sacrifice fly in the seventh. The Angels, meanwhile, had accumulated three in the second inning, two in the fourth and two in the fifth. Adcock drove in two of the runs on two doubles. Fred Talbot started for the A's and took the defeat.

Kansas City took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the night-cap, but Bobby Knoop's run-scoring single in the third and Willie Smith's two-run, fourth inning homer put Los Angeles back in control. Jim Fregosi singled in another run for the Angels in the fifth.

Consecutive singles by Ken Harrelson, Ed Charles and Bill Bryan gave the A's their third run in the fifth and Rene Lachemann's single scored the final Kansas City run in the eighth.

Roland Sheldon lost it and Bob Lee was the winner in relief.

Kansas City is idle today while the Cardinals close out their home stand tonight against the Pirates. Bob Gibson will start for St. Louis and Vernon Law for Pittsburgh.

First National And Security Federal Win Contests

Two Little League pitchers locked up last night, each pitching 4 hit baseball, with Security Federal downing Leslie Insurance 3 to 2.

Ship was the loser for Leslie, with McConnell picking up the win for Security Federal. Overby started for Security Federal, he was relieved in the fourth inning by McConnell.

Beck, Security Federal first baseman, led his team in hitting with two singles. Hicks and Brannum had one hit each, Hicks ripped a double in the fourth inning.

This was the first defeat of the season for Leslie Insurance. Ryan, Rofkahr, Colwick and Ship had one hit each to pace the Security Federal hitting attack.

Lopez To Lead All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was named today to manage the American League All-Stars against the National League All-Stars at Minneapolis-St. Paul on July 13.

American League President Joe Cronin said Lopez was selected because Yogi Berra, who managed New York to the league pennant last year and who would have automatically been the All-Star manager, is no longer in the league.

Lopez, patriarch of league managers with 14 years of managerial experience, guided the White Sox to a second-place finish last year.

This will be the fourth All-Star Game for Lopez as manager. His teams lost three previous encounters with their National League counterparts.

"I feel that Lopez earned the honor through his outstanding performance with the White Sox last season, as well as in recognition of his distinguished career as an American League manger," Cronin said in making the selection.

This marks the second year in a row that Lopez has been the All-Star manager through succession. Last year, he moved into the post because Ralph Houk, who had managed New York to the pennant in 1963, vacated the manager's desk for the role of general manager of the Yankees.

American League players will vote on the eight starting players, exclusive of pitchers. Lopez will name all the pitchers, as well as batting-practice pitchers and catchers, coaches and trainers.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1965

Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us. . . .But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image. (Daniel 3:17-18)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for great biblical characters who remained true to Thee. May we so live that when the greatest test comes we can confidently believe Thou wilt deliver us. In Thy Son's name we offer our prayer. Amen.

Paul H. Davis:

One of the tests for positive thinking, for constructive thinking, is to test one's idle moments. At those times, is one's mind turning over negative critical thoughts; fighting battles that have been won or lost; rehashing senseless arguments? If so, then one is out of tune. But if one is thinking how to improve a situation, how to gain a worthwhile objective, then one is one the constructive side of life.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1965

Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us. . . .But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image. (Daniel 3:17-18)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for great biblical characters who remained true to Thee. May we so live that when the greatest test comes we can confidently believe Thou wilt deliver us. In Thy Son's name we offer our prayer. Amen.

Paul H. Davis:

One of the tests for positive thinking, for constructive thinking, is to test one's idle moments. At those times, is one's mind turning over negative critical thoughts; fighting battles that have been won or lost; rehashing senseless arguments? If so, then one is out of tune. But if one is thinking how to improve a situation, how to gain a worthwhile objective, then one is one the constructive side of life.

Dominican Death Toll Totals 23

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The toll of American dead in the Dominican Republic has risen to 23 with the announcement that three U.S. paratroopers were killed in shooting this week.

The rebel leader, Col. Francis Caamano Deno, claimed Wednesday that 67 Dominicans were killed and 265 wounded in the heavy firing between U.S. forces and rebel supporters on Tuesday.

The Inter-American Peace Force announced that a U.S. paratrooper was killed Wednesday morning and two other U.S. soldiers died of wounds suffered in the fighting Tuesday.

Another 33 U.S. soldiers were reported wounded in shooting Tuesday and Wednesday between the peace force and the rebels in downtown Santo Domingo. A Brazilian officer wounded Tuesday was taken off the critical list.

Firing was heavy for more than three hours Wednesday afternoon along the northern corridor of the international security zone. U.S. paratroopers fired 50-caliber machine guns, recoilless rifles and other automatic weappns at buildings in the crowded slum area where snipers were believed hiding.

Caamano gave his report of casualties in the rebel sector at a news conference and accused U.S. troops of committing "an act of genocide without precedent in our country." The previous unofficial count of Dominican casualties was 26 dead and more than 75 wounded.

The rebel leader charged that a Red Cross center in Ozama fortress was "grotesquely bombed" and women and children were killed in the fortress on the west bank of the Ozama River. It faces U.S. positions on the east bank.

Caamano also repeated rebel charges that the U.S. troops opened fire on the rebels Tuesday, touching off the 12-hour battle. The mediating team of the Organization of American States reported earlier that the rebels fired first.

Rebel leaders claimed that the U.S. objective was to force the rebels into a more flexible negotiating position.

An OAS spokesman announced that the American troops took 280 prisoners in extending their lines four blocks below the international corridor during the fighting Tuesday.

The Americans pulled back two blocks, but the OAS committee said the other blocks would be held until Caamano gave "satisfactory assurances that this type of violation of the cease-fire, resulting in death and injuries to civilian and military personnel, will not occur again."

American officials took the view that the outbreak was inspired by a sharply anti-U.S. demonstration in the rebel sector Monday at which a speaker for the pro-Castro 14th of June Movement urged "liquidation of Yankee imperialists in the country."

Colonel Sets Anti-Beatle Record; Turns in 12 Medals

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — A colonel set a record for anti-Beatleism today by sending 12 medals back to Queen Elizabeth II.

Col. Frederick Wagg, 74, veteran of two world wars, joined the protest movement against the award of the M.B.E. — Member of the Order of the British Empire — to the lank-haired pop quartet.

He also resigned from Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party and canceled a $33,600 bequest to it.

"Decorating the Beatles," said the colonel, "has made a mockery of everything this country stands for.

"I've heard them sing and play and I think they're terrible."

At least six holders of the M.B.E. already had mailed their insignia — a heavy silver cross — back to Buckingham Palace.

Wagg's gesture dwarfed them all. Along with protests to the queen, the queen mother and Prime Minister Wilson he sent:

The Mons Star, the General Service Medal and the Victory Medal from World War I; The North West Frontier Medal from Indian Army service between the wars; The 1939-40 Star, Battle of the Atlantic Star, North Africa Star, Defense Medal and Victory Medal from World War II; And the Belgian Order of Leopold, and the French Croix de Guerre and Croix de Resistance.

He said he sent back the foreign decorations because they were granted with royal approval. Britons may not accepted foreign medals without royal permission.

The only medal he is keeping, he said, is the Croix de Lorraine which Gen. Charles de Gaulle handed to him personally after World War II.

Hundreds of letters about the Beatles award cascaded into the prime minister's office at No. 10 Downing Street and Buckingham Palace. Officials said roughly two in three opposed it — but some of the opposition came from supporters of rival pop groups.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony Celebrezze tells of the time he asked an elderly woman what she though of Medicare. "Oh, I like it very much," she replied. "I took it for a month and lost ten pounds." — Les Carpenter

The only medal he is keeping, he said, is the Croix de Lorraine which Gen. Charles de Gaulle handed to him personally after World War II.

Hundreds of letters about the Beatles award cascaded into the prime minister's office at No. 10 Downing Street and Buckingham Palace. Officials said roughly two in three opposed it — but some of the opposition came from supporters of rival pop groups.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony Celebrezze tells of the time he asked an elderly woman what she though of Medicare. "Oh, I like it very much," she replied. "I took it for a month and lost ten pounds." — Les Carpenter

Voting Rights And Legal Wrongs

A Commentary on S. 1564, the proposed "Voting Rights Act of 1965," prepared and distributed as a public service by the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government.

THE PROPOSED VOTING RIGHTS ACT OF 1965

On March 15, 1965, President Lyndon Johnson, speaking before Congress "for the dignity of man and the destiny of democracy," urged that body to join him "in working long hours, nights, and weekends if necessary" to enact a bill designed "to protect the right of every American to vote in every election that he may desire to participate in."

After describing the main operative provisions of his proposed legislation, Mr. Johnson stated: "There is no constitutional issue here. The command of the Constitution is plain."

The Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government respectfully disagrees with Mr. Johnson. If any command of the Constitution of the United States can ever be characterized as "plain," the Commission believes that those provisions relating to voting rights are "plain" prohibitions against enactment of the legislation proposed by the President.

The Commission's Executive Director, Sam S. Crutchfield, Jr., discusses below some of the constitutional objections to the proposed legislation.

Q. What is the purpose of the Administration's proposed legislation?

A. H. R. 6400, introduced in the House of Representatives, and S. 1564, its companion bill introduced in the Senate, proclaim themselves to be bills "to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Q. What are the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment?

A. That Amendment provides.

Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this Article by appropriate legislation.

Q. Does the Commission object to this Amendment, or legislation to implement this Amendment?

A. The Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government most certainly does not object to the Fifteenth Amendment. We abhor any practice that prevents any American citizen from exercising his constitutional right to vote.

Nor are we opposed to any legislation appropriately designed to prevent discrimination based on race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Q. Then why does the Commission object to the proposed "Voting Rights Act"?

A. The Commission objects to the bill because in our view it would pervert the Constitution.

Q. Explain that last statement.

A. Certainly. The administration's identical bills, H. R. 6400 and S. 1564, purport to be bills to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment's commandment that a citizen's right to vote cannot be denied or abridged on grounds of race or color. That some Negroes have been denied this right because of their race, and solely because of their race, is a most deplorable fact.

However, the real effect of the measure, if Congress is so ill-advised as to enact it, will be to obliterate one more power reserved to each of the States by the Constitution.

Q. What provisions of the proposed legislation lead you to this conclusion?

A. The President's proposals from beginning to end, are all violative of the Constitution of the United States.

Q. Perhaps at this point you had better discuss, with some specificity, the major provisions of the proposed legislation.

A. H. R. 6400, and its twin S. 1564, contain the following provisions:

The Act shall be known as the "Voting Rights Act of 1965." (A comment on this later.)

Section 3 (a) provides that "no person shall be denied the right to vote in any Federal, State, or local election because of his failure to comply with any test or device" which was in use on November 1, 1964, and with respect to which "the Director of the Census determines that less than 50 per centum of the persons of voting age, residing therein were registered on November 1, 1964, or that less than 50 per centum of such persons voted in the Presidential election of November 1964."

"Test or device" is defined as "any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting, (1) demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class."

Section 4 (a) provides that "whenever the Attorney General certifies (1) that he has received complaints in writing from twenty or more residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under section 3 (a) alleging that they have been denied the right to vote under color of law by reason of race or color, and that he believes such complaints to be meritorious, or (2) that in his judgment the appointment of examiners is otherwise necessary to enforce the guarantees of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Civil Service Commission shall appoint as many examiners in such subdivision as it may deem appropriate to prepare and maintain lists of persons eligible to vote in Federal, State, and local elections. Such appointments shall be made without regard to the civil service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, and may be terminated by the Commission at any time."

Section 5 (e) sets forth the following provision:

No person shall be denied the right to vote for failure to pay a poll tax if he tenders payment of such tax for the current year to an examiner, whether or not such tender would be timely or adequate under State law. An examiner shall have authority to accept such payment from any person authorized to make an application for listing, and shall issue a receipt for such payment. The examiner shall transmit promptly any such poll tax payment to the office of the State or local official authorized to receive such payment under State law, together with the name and address of the applicant.

Finally, Section 8 provides: Whenever a State or political subdivision for which determinations are in effect under section 3 (a) shall enact any law or ordinance imposing qualifications or procedures for voting different than those in force and effect on November 1, 1964, such law or ordinance shall not be enforced unless and until it shall have been finally adjudicated by an action for declaratory judgment brought against the United States in the District Court for the District of Columbia that such qualifications or procedures will not have the effect of denying or abriding rights guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment. All actions hereunder shall be heard by a three-judge court and there shall be a right of direct appeal to the Supreme Court.

These then, are the major provisions of the bills in question.

Image Tarnished In Latin America

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States risked its good-neighbor image by its military action in the Dominican Republic. The image now is tarnished in many Latin-American eyes.

But even as the Dominican crisis drags on, threatening to be worse in the long run than when it began, the end results for some of Latin America may turn out better than had been expected at the outset.

That depends on Latin Americans.

Some consolation for whatever loss of prestige the United States may have suffered from the Dominican intervention can come from a few unexpected results in Latin-American countries.

It all could be nullified, however, at any moment by one more crisis like the Dominican Republic—the next time not on a little Caribbean island but in a mainland country, such as Guatemala, for example, where such a crisis would hit with explosive force.

Barring such an explosion, however, some Latin-American governments seem to have been strengthened, to have more confidence than before in the face of extremist threats. Some have tartly back-sassed Uncle Sam to the extent that noticeably more foreign policy independence may be developing.

One well-informed U.S. source says that would be all to the good. The U.S. aim, he says, should be development of Latin-American policies independent of United States and Communist camps. He contends this would help Latin politics on the road to more internal stability.

Feelings in Hispanic America were bruised by the U.S. military action in the Caribbean. Even in countries which supported U.S. efforts to raise an inter-American force the U.S. troop landings were condemned by some leaders. Some said it would give a new handle to extremists and a new point of attack from which to launch violence.

The wild outbreaks failed to materialize in most cities. Where there were demonstrations, they were tied in with domestic complaints and local issues. The Dominican Republic was dragged in for window dressing.

There was little mass support in any case.

Denunciation of the U.S. military action by some governments seemed to shield them from attack on this score from the extreme left. Sassing Uncle Sam appeared, in effect, to strengthen them, though in many instances political leaders carefully saw to it that denunciations did not get out of hand.

Some moderate and obviously responsible Latin-American leaders see, as a result of the crisis, a chance to bolster stability in South America. They expressed belief that more show of local independence of the United States in foreign policy would help in that direction.

One day when John, a 1st grader, returned home from school wearing an Indian-bead ring, his mother observed, "Oh, how nice! Did you make that ring yourself?"

"Yes, I did," replied John. "It was supposed to be a bracelet — but I'm a slow beader."

House Passes Breath Test

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House finally passed the breath test bill yesterday. It is designed to catch drunk drivers and force them off the road.

Passage by a 147-5 vote sent the bill back to the Senate for consideration of a House amendment. It is a saving clause, providing that if any section of the bill is declared unconstitutional the rest of it will continue in force.

It was the second day of argument over the measure. This time there were several amendments offered, some serious and some humorous.

Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-St. Louis County, tried to get the bill changed so the director of revenue would have discretion whether to revoke a driver's license for a year because he was suspected of driving while intoxicated. The amendment was defeated and Cantrell then announced he was opposed to the bill.

Rep. Ronald Reed Jr., D-Buchanan County, offered an amendment to make the revocation effective for the rest of the suspected driver's natural life.

He said he had listened to the arguments of members from "various outposts of sobriety" strongest one in 50 states. His amendment lost 11-133.

It is no new observation that in America a great premium is placed upon youth. Men and women are often congratulated upon their youthfulness when they should be commiserated with for their immaturity.

Corvair by Chevrolet

It's stylish, sporty and available with up to 180 frisky horsepower. See below what car experts say about its unique engineering and handling. Then see your dealer and see what a wonderful buy you can get right now!

Hot Rod
"On tight corners . . . will hold its own with anything on the road."

Sports Illustrated
"On test runs at GM's Michigan proving grounds the Corsa started and stopped with no dipping, and it cornered—even at wild speeds—with smooth intent and no sign of sway."

Car Life
"We'd feed the Corvair into the turn with increasing force on the steering wheel, applying as much power as was available, and come scorching out the other end of the curve without so much as a tailwag."

Motor Trend
"Not counting the Corvette, Corvair has the closest thing to performance handling characteristics you'll find on this side of the ocean, with no sacrifice in ride qualities."

Sports Illustrated
". . . a new American sports car that will be eminently acceptable at rallies but that can, in the American manner, double at church picnics."

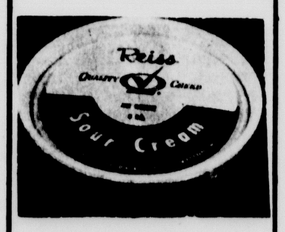

Car and Driver
"We have to go on record and say that the Corvair is—in our opinion—the most important new car of the entire crop . . . and the most beautiful car to appear in this country since before World War II."

Car and Driver
". . . the superfluous has been stripped away from a classic form and the result is a clean, beautiful car. The new Corvair's styling is going to attract most people—it's an obvious selling point. Its hidden virtue, handling, will soon become apparent to—and much appreciated by—the enthusiast driver."

Senate Expected to Pass Bill on New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON AP -- The Senate is expected to pass within a month the administration bill aimed at turning a national spotlight on city problems by creating a Cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Development.

If it does, Senate sources wouldn't be too surprised if President Johnson names Robert C. Weaver, a Negro who heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the first secretary of the new department.

This was the educated guessing on Capitol Hill in the wake of House approval of the bill Wednesday by a 217-184 vote.

Johnson has never even hinted who he would name to head the new department, which would be the 11th of Cabinet rank and the first added since the Department of Health, Education and welfare was established by executive order in April 1953.

President John F. Kennedy, who originally suggested an urban affairs department, had announced he would name Weaver.

This was considered instrumental in House defeat of the proposal in 1962.

The bill would combine the activities of the Federal Housing Administration and the Federal National Mortgage Administration, both within Weaver's HHFA. In fact, Republicans suggested during the two days of House debate that all the legislation would accomplish would be to upgrade the housing agency.

Democrats rejected this argument.

The Senate has completed hearings on the bill and its Government Operations Committee is expected to endorse the measure toward the end of next week. But there is no great rush to bring the bill to the floor. Still, passage by mid-July is considered likely.

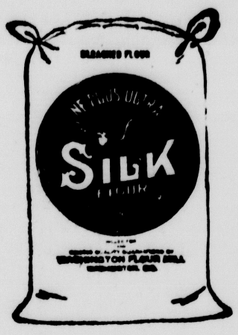

A total of 208 Democrats and 9 Republicans voted for the bill; 66 Democrats and 118 Republicans voted against it.

OLD-TIME RELAXATION STILL POSSIBLE WITH BIG TUBS

Ever long for the good old days when life was carefree living a bit difficult at times, but those big tubs are still here. Just ask your plumbing contractor for a 16-inch tub the next time you build or remodel. And if you want that old-fashioned stretch-out type, tell him to make it a five and one-half or six footer. They're still here, and they don't cost much more.

Edwin Way Teale in Journey Into Summer:

When first we came to the unfamiliar world of these treeless, 12,000 - foot - high peaks, they left us feeling small and lost, overawed and alien. Then we made friends with the little things: pink and white bistort scattered widely on slender stems, alpine anemone, the rosy finches and the pipits, the moss campion and snow willow. We became familiar with fragments of the whole. We went, bit by bit, from the particular to the general. And thus, advancing inductively from the small to the large, we came to know and love the mountains.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You say you go to experts in every field to help you with your answers. So why didn't you get some help with your advice to the person who wanted to know why women's feet hurt all the time?

If somebody wrote to you and said his head hurt all the time would you tell him to rub some cream on it and buy his hats one size larger? Well, when you told the person who wrote about women's feet, that the cure was to massage the feet with cream and to buy bigger shoes, I almost dropped my teeth in the coffee cup.

If you do not limit your practice of medicine to feet, Ann Landers, perhaps you can tell me why I have had a severe pain in my left arm for two weeks. I would like to save the price of a visit to the doctor's office. — CRITICAL CALVIN

Dear Critical: I must have grabbed you right in the heel, Achilles.

When a reader writes to me and complains of pain I always suggest he see a doctor. This reader asked a general question, however. He wanted to know why so many gals suffer from barking dogs. My reply was equally general. I suggested that if more women bought shoes that fit properly their feet would not hurt. If one woman wrote and said, "My feet ache," I'd say, "See a doctor."

Dear Ann Landers: I've learned quite a few things from reading your column and now I want to offer a few words, which might be of help to someone else. The subject: "Wives Who Keep An Eye On Their Husbands."

If there was ever a waste of time, girls — this is it. I learned from experience that if a man wants to cheat he'll find a way. If you watch him you'll only force him to figure out a way to outsmart you. And he'll do it.

My husband was a jazz musician — and very handsome. The girls fell for him like crazy. I used to go along on jobs to keep an eye on him. Well, he didn't date anybody after he finished playing, but I later learned he faked dental appointments and eye doctor appointments, invented a sick buddy in a sanitarium and lied about afternoon benefits at children's hospitals.

Finally he got me a part-time job as an usherette in a movie house so he could have the apartment to himself from 2:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. That's how I caught him.

Take it from me, girls, if a guy is decent you don't have to watch him. If he needs to be watched he isn't worth living with. — BATTLE SCARRED

Dear Scarred: Thanks for your excellent letter. Your advice also holds true for men who watch their wives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 13 years old and everyone says I have a beautiful voice. Even the choir master says my voice is lovely.

I want to be a professional singer but I have a problem. Every time I am asked to sing a solo in church I get so scared I can't make a sound. I stand there with my mouth open and nothing comes out. It's like my vocal cords are missing.

What good is a beautiful voice if nobody can hear it? How can I get over this? — NERVOUS NIGHTINGALE

Dear N.N.: It is not unusual even for the most experienced artists to be a bit nervous but you sound like a basket case, kiddo.

The experts say the way to combat ordinary stage fright is to take a deep breath and plunge ahead. And don't become unglued by a bad beginning. Keep telling yourself it's going to get better. If it doesn't get better, I suggest another profession.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SWIVEL AERATORS FOR KITCHEN SINKS

Next time you decide to buy another aerator for your kitchen faucet, consider the swivel type. A swivel aerator permits the flow of water to be directed to any part of the sink. Thus, not only is cleaning the sink made far easier, but shampooing (and many women do shampoo at the sink) becomes a simpler task, too.

WAYS OF NATURE

Nature in her carefree way
heals the scars of yesterday.
Lightens the heavens with moon and stars,
Pampers the earth with gentle showers.

Blesses the day with warming sun,
Shelters the night, when shadows come.
Cloaks the forest with mystery
Lets winding rivers flow fancy free.

Paints a rainbow across the sky,
Sprinkles stardust, where moonbeams lie.
The wiles of nature from spring unto fall,
With intriguing moods at her beck and call.

Edwin Way Teale in Journey Into Summer:

When first we came to the unfamiliar world of these treeless, 12,000 - foot - high peaks, they left us feeling small and lost, overawed and alien. Then we made friends with the little things: pink and white bistort scattered widely on slender stems, alpine anemone, the rosy finches and the pipits, the moss campion and snow willow. We became familiar with fragments of the whole. We went, bit by bit, from the particular to the general. And thus, advancing inductively from the small to the large, we came to know and love the mountains.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You say you go to experts in every field to help you with your answers. So why didn't you get some help with your advice to the person who wanted to know why women's feet hurt all the time?

If somebody wrote to you and said his head hurt all the time would you tell him to rub some cream on it and buy his hats one size larger? Well, when you told the person who wrote about women's feet, that the cure was to massage the feet with cream and to buy bigger shoes, I almost dropped my teeth in the coffee cup.

If you do not limit your practice of medicine to feet, Ann Landers, perhaps you can tell me why I have had a severe pain in my left arm for two weeks. I would like to save the price of a visit to the doctor's office. — CRITICAL CALVIN

Dear Critical: I must have grabbed you right in the heel, Achilles.

When a reader writes to me and complains of pain I always suggest he see a doctor. This reader asked a general question, however. He wanted to know why so many gals suffer from barking dogs. My reply was equally general. I suggested that if more women bought shoes that fit properly their feet would not hurt. If one woman wrote and said, "My feet ache," I'd say, "See a doctor."

Dear Ann Landers: I've learned quite a few things from reading your column and now I want to offer a few words, which might be of help to someone else. The subject: "Wives Who Keep An Eye On Their Husbands."

If there was ever a waste of time, girls — this is it. I learned from experience that if a man wants to cheat he'll find a way. If you watch him you'll only force him to figure out a way to outsmart you. And he'll do it.

My husband was a jazz musician — and very handsome. The girls fell for him like crazy. I used to go along on jobs to keep an eye on him. Well, he didn't date anybody after he finished playing, but I later learned he faked dental appointments and eye doctor appointments, invented a sick buddy in a sanitarium and lied about afternoon benefits at children's hospitals.

Finally he got me a part-time job as an usherette in a movie house so he could have the apartment to himself from 2:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. That's how I caught him.

Take it from me, girls, if a guy is decent you don't have to watch him. If he needs to be watched he isn't worth living with. — BATTLE SCARRED

Dear Scarred: Thanks for your excellent letter. Your advice also holds true for men who watch their wives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 13 years old and everyone says I have a beautiful voice. Even the choir master says my voice is lovely.

I want to be a professional singer but I have a problem. Every time I am asked to sing a solo in church I get so scared I can't make a sound. I stand there with my mouth open and nothing comes out. It's like my vocal cords are missing.

What good is a beautiful voice if nobody can hear it? How can I get over this? — NERVOUS NIGHTINGALE

Dear N.N.: It is not unusual even for the most experienced artists to be a bit nervous but you sound like a basket case, kiddo.

The experts say the way to combat ordinary stage fright is to take a deep breath and plunge ahead. And don't become unglued by a bad beginning. Keep telling yourself it's going to get better. If it doesn't get better, I suggest another profession.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SWIVEL AERATORS FOR KITCHEN SINKS

Next time you decide to buy another aerator for your kitchen faucet, consider the swivel type. A swivel aerator permits the flow of water to be directed to any part of the sink. Thus, not only is cleaning the sink made far easier, but shampooing (and many women do shampoo at the sink) becomes a simpler task, too.

WAYS OF NATURE

Nature in her carefree way
heals the scars of yesterday.
Lightens the heavens with moon and stars,
Pampers the earth with gentle showers.

Blesses the day with warming sun,
Shelters the night, when shadows come.
Cloaks the forest with mystery
Lets winding rivers flow fancy free.

Paints a rainbow across the sky,
Sprinkles stardust, where moonbeams lie.
The wiles of nature from spring unto fall,
With intriguing moods at her beck and call.

Congress Seeking Earliest Tax Cut

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress set up a tight schedule today to bring price cuts through excise tax reductions to U.S. consumers at the earliest possible date — perhaps Saturday.

Conferees from the House and Senate agreed Wednesday night on a compromise excise tax bill ultimately trimming $4.6 billion a year from the levies on a wide variety of goods, from automobiles to matches.

House leaders plan, barring unforeseen setbacks, to take up the compromise bill as the first order of business today. Since the conference version closely resembles the bill the House has already passed, quick approval was expected.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., one of the principal Senate conferees, said that chamber will act as soon as possible after the House votes.

Such a legislative schedule could send the measure to President Johnson in time for him to sign it Friday, bringing most tax cuts into effect Saturday.

Actually, the initial 3 per cent reduction in the automobile excise — $70 on an average car — and the repeal of the 10 per cent levy on the manufacturer's price on air conditioners are retroactive to May 15. Anyone who purchased such an article on that date or later would be eligible for a refund.

Tax cuts going into effect the day after the President signs the bill include repeal of the 10 per cent retail excise taxes on jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and luggage, and of the manufacturer's excise taxes on a variety of goods including appliances, radio and television sets, cameras, business machines, musical instruments and most sporting goods.

Most of the remaining exises, including taxes on theater tickets, cabaret checks and club dues, as well as the stamp taxes on real estate purchases, would go out either next Dec. 31 for Jan. 1.

The conference agreed on a schedule for automobile excise reductions slightly different from either the House or Senate versions, but did not change the provisions for the first 3 per cent cut on which the two chambers had agreed.

Under the compromise bill, the 10 per cent tax would be reduced to 7 per cent retroactive to May 15; 6 per cent effective next Jan. 1; 4 per cent Jan. 1, 1967; 2 per cent Jan. 1, 1968; and 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1969, and thereafter.

Another tax which, under the bill, would be phased out gradually, is the present 10 per cent levy on telephone service. It would be reduced to 3 per cent Jan. 1, then cut by stages to zero by Jan. 1, 1969.

Suit Against Anti-Poverty Program

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A lawsuit filed here takes issue with the federal anti-poverty program on the constitutional point of church-state separation.

Specifically challenged is Catholic participation in a preschool project for disadvantaged children partially financed with federal funds.

The legal test may be the first for Project Head Start, one aspect of the federal Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

Plaintiffs oppose use of three Catholic parochial schools in an eight-week summer project here to prepare children of low income families for school.

Involved is $54,850 in federal funds granted the Human Resources Corp., which administers the anti-poverty program in Kansas City and Jackson County, Mo.

The suit was filed Wednesday in Jackson County Circuit Court and, in addition to the corporation, also names as defendants the city and the county, and their treasurers.

Named as plaintiffs are 18 Kansas City area men and women, supported by a national organization, Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

A spokesman for project Head Start in Washington said the principle of church-state separation is strictly followed in the Economic Opportunity Act.

Religious - oriented facilities may be used, he said, adding, "but there can be no religious ornaments displayed, no indoctrination. The guidelines are very strict."

FLYING FLICKA—It's age-old custom, not an exuberant outbreak of Scandinavian spring fever, that prompts fellow students to send this Swedish coed, bouquet and all, into orbit. It's their way of congratulating the "Flicka" (girl) for passing the matriculation exam at Stockholm University.

Congress Seeking Earliest Tax Cut

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress set up a tight schedule today to bring price cuts through excise tax reductions to U.S. consumers at the earliest possible date — perhaps Saturday.

Conferees from the House and Senate agreed Wednesday night on a compromise excise tax bill ultimately trimming $4.6 billion a year from the levies on a wide variety of goods, from automobiles to matches.

House leaders plan, barring unforeseen setbacks, to take up the compromise bill as the first order of business today. Since the conference version closely resembles the bill the House has already passed, quick approval was expected.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., one of the principal Senate conferees, said that chamber will act as soon as possible after the House votes.

Such a legislative schedule could send the measure to President Johnson in time for him to sign it Friday, bringing most tax cuts into effect Saturday.

Actually, the initial 3 per cent reduction in the automobile excise — $70 on an average car — and the repeal of the 10 per cent levy on the manufacturer's price on air conditioners are retroactive to May 15. Anyone who purchased such an article on that date or later would be eligible for a refund.

Tax cuts going into effect the day after the President signs the bill include repeal of the 10 per cent retail excise taxes on jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and luggage, and of the manufacturer's excise taxes on a variety of goods including appliances, radio and television sets, cameras, business machines, musical instruments and most sporting goods.

Most of the remaining exises, including taxes on theater tickets, cabaret checks and club dues, as well as the stamp taxes on real estate purchases, would go out either next Dec. 31 for Jan. 1.

The conference agreed on a schedule for automobile excise reductions slightly different from either the House or Senate versions, but did not change the provisions for the first 3 per cent cut on which the two chambers had agreed.

Under the compromise bill, the 10 per cent tax would be reduced to 7 per cent retroactive to May 15; 6 per cent effective next Jan. 1; 4 per cent Jan. 1, 1967; 2 per cent Jan. 1, 1968; and 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1969, and thereafter.

Another tax which, under the bill, would be phased out gradually, is the present 10 per cent levy on telephone service. It would be reduced to 3 per cent Jan. 1, then cut by stages to zero by Jan. 1, 1969.

Suit Against Anti-Poverty Program

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A lawsuit filed here takes issue with the federal anti-poverty program on the constitutional point of church-state separation.

Specifically challenged is Catholic participation in a preschool project for disadvantaged children partially financed with federal funds.

The legal test may be the first for Project Head Start, one aspect of the federal Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

Plaintiffs oppose use of three Catholic parochial schools in an eight-week summer project here to prepare children of low income families for school.

Involved is $54,850 in federal funds granted the Human Resources Corp., which administers the anti-poverty program in Kansas City and Jackson County, Mo.

The suit was filed Wednesday in Jackson County Circuit Court

Named as plaintiffs are 18 Kansas City area men and women, supported by a national organization, Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

A spokesman for project Head Start in Washington said the principle of church-state separation is strictly followed in the Economic Opportunity Act.

Religious - oriented facilities may be used, he said, adding, "but there can be no religious ornaments displayed, no indoctrination. The guidelines are very strict."

Editorial, "The Power of Words":

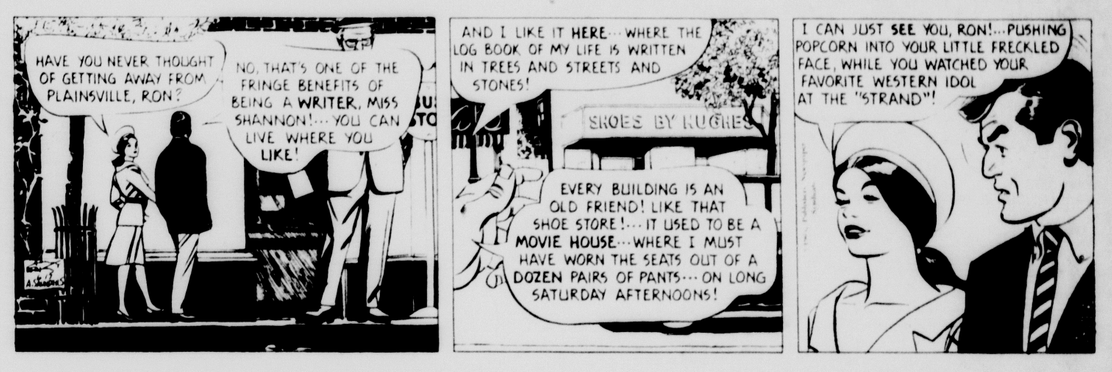

They sing. They hurt. They teach. They sanctify. They were man's first, immeasurable feat of magic. They liberated us from ignorance and our barbarous past. For without these marvelous scribbles which build letters into words, words into sentences, sentences into systems and sciences and creeds, man would be forever confined to the self-isolated prison of the scuttlefish or the chimpanzee. — Look
